The mission of the Utah judiciary is to provide the people an open, fair, efficient, and independent system for the advancement of justice under the law.
Dear Chief Justice Durham:

On behalf of the Judicial Council’s ad hoc Committee on Probate Law and Procedure, I am pleased to submit this final report with recommendations.

The Judicial Council’s charge to the committee was very broad, encompassing nearly any part of probate policy that we decided needs attention. We focused immediately on protective proceedings in the district court. Yet, as narrowly as we have focused our attention, the topic is complex enough to have required all of our time. So the work on the probate code and the needs of the elderly remains unfinished.

We offer extensive recommendations in the area of guardianships and conservatorships. This package combines necessary changes to statutes and rules, improved forms and education, and nothing less than a cultural shift in the way we think of guardianships and conservatorships.

The appointment of a guardian or a conservator removes from a person a large part of what it means to be an adult: the ability to make decisions for oneself. The appointment often comes later in one’s life, but not always. Younger adults incapacitated by accident, disease or developmental limitations also are affected. We terminate this fundamental and basic right with all the procedural rigor of processing a traffic ticket.

- The definition of incapacity is essentially the same as it was 100 years ago.
- The respondent is sometimes not represented.
- The respondent is sometimes represented by a lawyer recruited by the petitioner’s lawyer.
- The respondent’s lawyer sometimes acts as guardian ad litem rather than advocate.
- There is little or no procedure to elicit and challenge evidence.
- The evidence itself is cursory.
- Once appointed, guardians are often given the authority of a conservator whether or not that authority is warranted by the respondent’s circumstances.
- Statutes claim to prefer limited authority for guardians and conservators, but fail to describe less restrictive alternatives.
Plenary appointments are common with little evidence to support the need.
There is no planning to help the respondent live life as independently as possible.
There is no regulation of professional guardians.
There is little education or assistance for family guardians.
There is little training for judges and clerks.

The Deseret News recently reported that when it “went to court to watch guardianship proceedings, it was startling how quickly someone could be stripped of all decisionmaking rights. Once the paperwork is in order, ‘hearings’ average seconds, not minutes.”

Utah is not unique. Quite the contrary. Most states have let slip this important area of the law.

We classify guardianships and conservatorships as probate cases, but they have more in common with family law cases than with the intergenerational transfer of property. They share many of the emotional and financial issues of a divorce. The court defines future family relationships. We offer our recommendations with this idea in mind.

Our recommendations retain the basic concept of the Uniform Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act to avoid contested litigation whenever possible. But uncontested does not mean automatic. We recommend a much more fully developed process to better protect the respondent and to present better evidence on which to make a measured intervention.

We have three recommendations that require public money:

- attorney fees and expenses of indigent respondents;
- interpreting guardianship and conservatorship proceedings and translating forms and materials for non-English speaking respondents; and
- a coordinator to recruit and train volunteers to serve as court visitors.

We recognize that the significant decline in state revenue means there will be no general fund appropriation for programs such as these. Nevertheless, we make the recommendations hoping that funding may someday be available. In the meantime, we recommend that the courts and the Bar pursue funds that might be available through and Justice for All, the Utah Bar Foundation, grants, and other sources. And we recommend that the Utah Access to Justice Council and the Utah State Bar organize and support a panel of trained, pro bono attorneys.

Beyond these funds, we recognize that our recommendations require a particularized inquiry into the respondent’s circumstances. The inquiry replaces traditional subjective judgments about the reasonableness of the respondent’s behavior with a more focused decision about the respondent’s capabilities and limitations. And all of that translates into more time.

We recommend that this report be presented to judges, lawyers, guardians, conservators, health care providers, service providers and other stakeholders for critical analysis which can be integrated into legislation and rules for 2010.
I want to thank the committee members and staff for their dedicated time and attention to the grand concepts and the many, many details of a program of this scope. We were well served.

Finally, I want to thank Judge Sheila McCleve for her work as the first chair of the committee. Circumstances meant that she was not able to remain as chair, but her initial guidance showed us the way.

Sincerely,

George M. Harmond
Committee Chair

(2) Summary of recommendations

- Modernize the definition of incapacity to focus on functional limitations. Require proof of incapacity (among other grounds) to appoint a conservator or a guardian.
- Enforce the requirement to prove incapacity by clear and convincing evidence.
- Consider in every case ordering that the respondent be evaluated by a physician or psychiatrist and by a court visitor. Adopt uniform forms on which to report the results of a clinical and social evaluation.
- Appoint a lawyer to represent the respondent in conservatorship cases, as is now done in guardianship cases.
- Require the respondent’s lawyer to be from a roster of qualified lawyers maintained by the Utah State Bar. Establish minimum qualifications for the roster. Appropriate funds to pay the respondent’s lawyer if the respondent cannot afford a lawyer and does not qualify for existing programs.
- Respondent’s lawyer should be an independent and zealous advocate, rather than a guardian ad litem.
- If the court determines that a petition resulted in an order beneficial to the respondent, and if funds are available in the estate, permit the court or conservator to pay the reasonable and necessary expenses, costs and attorney fees from the estate.
- Require the respondent to attend all hearings unless the respondent waives that right or unless the court finds that attending the hearing would harm the respondent. Take steps to accommodate the special needs of respondents at court hearings.
- Appoint a certified court interpreter if the respondent does not understand English.
- Refer protective proceedings to mediation. The mediation community should develop training for mediating protective proceedings, including especially the skills and accommodations necessary when mediating with a person of potentially diminished capacity.
- Consider appointing a commissioner to hear probate matters, including guardianship and conservatorship cases, in districts with sufficient caseload.
- With a few exceptions, classify guardianship and conservatorship records as private.
- Require the petitioner to show that alternatives less restrictive than appointing a fiduciary have failed or that they would not be effective. Presume, rather than favor, limited guardianships. Adopt laws, procedures and forms that make limited guardianships a realistic option.
- Require the fiduciary to use the “substituted judgment” standard for decisionmaking on behalf of the respondent except in those limited circumstances in which the “best interest” standard may be used.
- Adopt special procedures for temporary emergency appointments.
- Eliminate “school guardianships.”
- Permit a person to nominate, rather than appoint, a guardian for self, a child or a spouse, and to petition to confirm the nomination during one’s lifetime.
- Require the fiduciary to write a management plan and file it with the court.
- Appoint a coordinator to develop a program of volunteer court visitors.
- Regulate the profession of guardian through the Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing. Require private guardians and conservators to disclose any criminal convictions that have not been expunged.
- Develop training for lawyers, judges and court staff. Develop outreach and assistance to guardians, conservators, respondents and the public.
- Unify the laws regulating guardians and conservators except where there is sound policy to differentiate them.

(3) Introduction

The general state of guardianships and conservatorships may depend upon whom one talks to. Although a bit dated, one court group, while recognizing that abuses occur, notes that, “the great majority of guardianships … are initiated by people of goodwill who are in good faith seeking to assist and protect the respondent. … Furthermore, in the great majority of guardianship proceedings, the outcome serves the best interests of the respondent and an appointed guardian acts in the respondent's best interests.” ¹ On the other side of the coin, empirical researchers from a similar time period, while noting the benefits of guardianships, report that “guardianship … often benefit[s] the guardian more than the ward and [can] hasten institutionalization for the protected person. … [H]earings [are] extremely brief, [do] not rely upon medical testimony, and often [result] in plenary orders ….” ²

Appointing a guardian or conservator legally changes an adult into a child once more, and, as with a child, someone else decides those questions.

The committee members’ experience supports both views. Many of the conclusions we reach are based on our observations and experience. We have no statistics to offer because, like most jurisdictions, other than the number of petitions filed, we record little in a systematic way. In how many cases is the respondent excused from the trial? In how many cases is the respondent not represented by counsel? Not evaluated by a physician or psychiatrist? By a court visitor? In the end, we do not know. Based on our experience we know which observations in the national literature and in the committee testimony ring true.

Appointing a guardian or a conservator is one the most significant interventions by a court into a person’s life. Like a prison sentence or commitment to a mental health facility, the appointment takes from that person the freedom to decide for oneself many, and often times all, of the large and small issues we face every day. Appointing a guardian or conservator legally changes an adult into a child once more, and, as with a child, someone else decides those questions. ³

Ideally, “procedural protections work to ensure that putative wards are fully informed, properly evaluated, zealously defended, that the issues are fully developed and heard, and that an intervention is finely tuned to the needs and preferences of individuals.”⁴ Yet those protections are applied inconsistently at best.

The law requires that the respondent be represented, but that does not always happen. If the respondent is represented, the attorney might have been recruited by the petitioner’s attorney. Or might fulfill the role of a guardian ad litem rather than advocate. The standard to declare someone incapacitated is clear and convincing evidence, but clinical evidence is usually modest. Procedures are cursory. The Deseret News reports that “‘hearings’ average seconds, not minutes.”⁵

The guardian is usually granted plenary authority over the respondent with little or no exploration of the respondent’s capabilities and in the face of laws that prefer limited authority. Annual reports by guardians and conservators have been required for many years, but only recently has the district court enforced the requirement. The court has no way to verify the truth of those reports, except by objections from the respondent’s family, which might be uninterested or perhaps does not exist.

Press reports and official investigations in other states have revealed ruined lives and have sent fiduciaries to prison.⁶ Although Utah has so far avoided the scandalous headlines in which a fiduciary abuses, neglects or defrauds the person s/he is responsible for, there is no reason to believe that guardians and conservators in Utah are any less prone to abuse or fraud than those in other states whose malfeasance and negligence have been discovered.

⁶ See e.g., stories linked at: http://www.citibay.com/cgi-bin/directory.pl?etype=odp&passurl=/Society/Issues/Violence_and_Abuse/Elder/Guardianships/.
Most petitions are filed in good faith to appoint a person of goodwill who will serve in the best interests of the protected person, but we rely primarily on good faith and goodwill to achieve that result. Good intentions and lack of oversight have, over time, led to summary proceedings that presume to protect the respondent from others and from self, but that offer little real protection from the process itself or from those we put in charge of the respondent’s life. And even one case in which the fiduciary takes advantage of the person s/he is supposed to take care of is one too many. Summary proceedings and trust in the capability and goodwill of guardians and conservators are easy, but they deny many respondents the level of independence they may be capable of.

To be sure, there are cases in which the respondent is so clearly incapacitated that substantial medical evidence would be costly and without purpose. There are cases in which the respondent is so fully incapacitated that plenary control over that person is the most appropriate arrangement. But not in all cases. Many cases present nuances that need to be explored and capacities that need to be protected.

In Utah, as in most states and in national standards, guardianships and conservatorships are classified as probate cases, yet today they have more in common with family law than with probate law. Those who need protection or help are often seniors but not always. The family faces the same emotional and financial drain faced in divorce. Although we do not intend to reclassify an entire area of the law, we recommend significant changes to many statutes and rules with the dynamics of family relationships in mind.

This is an area that is ripe for collective action. There are roles here for all three branches of government, the Bar, the health care community, and even the larger public community. This is what we hope to achieve:

- a deliberate inquiry into the limitations and needs of the respondent;
- a measured intervention based on those limitations and needs; and
- oversight to protect the quality of life of a respected individual.

(4) Definition of “incapacity”

(a) Inadequacy of current definition

Merely defining the term “incapacity” is a complex matter. Is it a legal standard or medical? Is it cognitive or functional? What factors are relevant? Can a person lack capacity for some purposes and have capacity for others? Yet we must agree on a definition because the appointment of a guardian or conservator rests upon the finding that a person is incapacitated.

The keystone to the entire protective arch is not that much different from the definition at the time of statehood.

7 Current Utah law permits the appointment of a conservator if the respondent “is unable to manage the person’s property and affairs effectively for reasons such as mental illness, mental deficiency, physical illness or disability, chronic use of drugs, chronic intoxication, confinement, detention by a foreign power, or disappearance.” Utah Code Section 75-5-401(2). Except for confinement, detention and disappearance as reasons to appoint a conservator, this definition is essentially the same as incapacity.
The current statutes governing guardians and conservators were enacted in 1975 and are based on the Uniform Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act of 1968. Medical care for and everyday functioning of people well into later life has improved a lot in 40 years, but our definition of “incapacity,” the keystone to the entire protective arch, is not that much different from the definition at the time of statehood.

Utah law defines an incapacitated person as:

any person who is impaired by reason of mental illness, mental deficiency, physical illness or disability, chronic use of drugs, chronic intoxication, or other cause, except minority, to the extent of lacking sufficient understanding or capacity to make or communicate responsible decisions.

Utah Code Section 75-1-201(22).

Although the statute has never been amended to reflect the decision, our Supreme Court has added that the lack of understanding or capacity to make or communicate decisions must be so impaired that the person is unable to care for personal needs or safety to such an extent that illness or harm may occur.

We hold that … a determination that an adult cannot make ‘responsible decisions concerning his person’ and is therefore incompetent, may be made only if the putative protected person’s decisionmaking process is so impaired that he is unable to care for his personal safety or unable to attend to and provide for such necessities as food, shelter, clothing, and medical care, without which physical illness or harm may occur.

In other words, poor choices alone – even choices that a reasonable person would describe as irresponsible – do not make one incapacitated.

The Uniform Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act of 1997 moves away from the traditional “physical illness” and “mental illness” found in the 1968 Uniform Act to focus on the ability to receive and evaluate information or to make or communicate decisions.\(^8\)

Many states and the National Probate Court Standards have moved away from cognition and decisionmaking to focus on functional limitations: What can the respondent do and not do? In this approach, cognition and executive functioning remain important, perhaps more important than most other functioning, but, in the end, they are simply functions in which the respondent may face limitations. This definition inherently answers the question: Can a person lack capacity for some purposes and retain capacity for others? At least potentially, the answer is “yes,” depending on the nature of the functional limitations.

This approach requires a particularized inquiry into the respondent’s circumstances, which necessarily is more difficult and time-consuming. The inquiry replaces traditional subjective judgments about the reasonableness of the respondent’s behavior with a more focused decision about the respondent’s capabilities and limitations. ⁹

Whether the determination of incapacity is a medical or legal decision is more easily concluded. Given the consequences of the decision, it has to be a legal decision judicially made. The decision might be heavily influenced by medical evidence and opinions, but the decision itself remains a legal consequence.

(b) Recommended definition

By evaluating our current statute and case law, the definitions in other states and those recommended in national standards, and by considering similar concepts from Utah law in other applications, we recommend the following definition of incapacity for the appointment of either a guardian or a conservator:

“Incapacity” means a judicial determination that an adult’s ability, even with assistance, to

(a) receive and evaluate information,

(b) make and communicate decisions,

(c) provide for necessities such as food, shelter, clothing, health care or safety,

(d) carry out the activities of daily living, or

(e) manage his or her property

is so impaired that illness or physical or financial harm may occur. Incapacity is a judicial decision, not a medical decision, and is measured by functional limitations.

Although not mentioned in the Boyer holding, we recommend adding “financial harm” to the definition of “incapacity” so that one definition can serve as the grounds for appointing a guardian or a conservator, rather than the separate but similar definitions we have now. The importance of this small change can be lost in the enormity of the project. Historically, appointment of a conservator has not been a determination of the respondent’s incapacity. ¹⁰ With this change, a conservator cannot be appointed unless the respondent is incapacitated.

The grounds for appointing a conservator should also include that the respondent is missing, detained, or unable to return to the United States, and the person to be protected should be able to voluntarily request the appointment. But the definition of ¹⁰ Utah Code Section 75-5-408(2); 1997 Uniform Act Section 409(d).

incapacity as grounds to appoint a guardian or conservator should be the same for both offices.

(c) Factors

We propose several factors that the judge might consider when determining the respondent’s capacity. Most will be familiar to those experienced in protective proceedings.

(1) whether the respondent’s condition, limitations and level of functioning leave the respondent at risk of:
   (a) his or her property being dissipated;
   (b) being unable to provide for his or her support, or for the support of individuals who are entitled to the respondent’s support;
   (c) being financially exploited;
   (d) being abused or neglected, including self injurious behavior; or
   (e) having his or her rights violated;

(2) whether the respondent has a physical or mental illness, disability, condition, or syndrome and the prognosis;

(3) whether the respondent is able to evaluate the consequences of alternative decisions;

(4) whether the respondent can manage the activities of daily living through training, education, support services, mental and physical health care, medication, therapy, assistants, assistive devices, or other means that the respondent will accept;

(5) the nature and extent of the demands placed on the respondent by the need for care;

(6) the nature and extent of the demands placed on the respondent by his or her property;

(7) the consistency of the respondent’s behavior with his or her long-standing values, preferences and patterns of behavior, and

(8) other relevant factors.

We want to focus on one factor in particular: the respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior. Although it comes late in the list, it is perhaps one of the more important factors. Two brief quotes from the benchbook Judicial Determination of Capacity of Older Adults in Guardianship Proceedings by the ABA indicate why.

Capacity reflects the consistency of choices with the individual’s life patterns, expressed values, and preferences. Choices that are linked with lifetime values are rational for an individual even if outside the norm.\(^{11}\)

Each of the above factors must be weighed in view of the individual’s history of choices and expressed values and preferences. Do not mistake

\(^{11}\) Judicial Determination of Capacity, p 5.
eccentricity for diminished capacity. Actions that may appear to stem from cognitive problems may in fact be rational if based on lifetime beliefs or values. Long-held choices must be respected, yet weighed in view of new medical information that could increase risk, such as a diagnosis of dementia.12

(5) Evidence of incapacity

(a) Inadequacy of current evidence

On what basis should the court decide whether a person is incapacitated? Although the statute requires only that the judge be “satisfied”13 that the respondent is incapacitated, the actual standard – clear and convincing evidence – is well settled.
This is the law from the Utah Supreme Court14, and it is in keeping with the 1997
Uniform Act.15

Yet from the experience of committee members, it often does not require very much evidence to satisfy that high standard. In an empirical study of guardianship cases in Colorado, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania,16 researchers found:

- Written evaluations were filed in all but one case in Massachusetts and Colorado, and in 75% of the cases in Pennsylvania.
- Evaluations were submitted by physicians in 98% of the Massachusetts cases and in 88% of the Pennsylvania cases. In Colorado, clinical reports were submitted by physicians (57%), psychologists (27%), other professionals (9%), or a multidisciplinary team (6%) consistent with the 1997 Uniform Act.
- The average length of clinical reports in Colorado as 781 words, 244 words in Pennsylvania and 83 words in Massachusetts.
- 75% of the Massachusetts reports were hand written, and 65% of these had at least some portion that was illegible. In Pennsylvania and Colorado, reports were almost always typed.

That 83 words, some of which are illegible, might be offered as clear and convincing evidence is beyond belief.

A judge should never rely exclusively on a clinical evaluation secured by the petitioner. “A clinical evaluation secured by the petitioner is for the purpose of supporting the petition and may lack attention to the individual’s areas of strength, a prognosis for improvement, or important situational factors. An independent assessment can flesh out skeletal or purely one-sided information."\(^{17}\)

The danger of relying exclusively on an evaluation arranged by the petitioner is shown by physicians’ disagreement about determining capacity. In a study reported in 1997, \(^{18}\) “physicians experienced in competency assessment showed ... virtually unanimous judgment agreement [98\%] for older normal controls but dramatically lower ... agreement [56\%] for patients with mild [Alzheimer’s disease].” “Overall pairwise physician ratings showed excellent percentage judgment agreement for the control and a severely demented AD patient but lower percentage agreement for patients with mild to moderate [Alzheimer’s disease].” In other words, physicians consistently diagnosed the obvious subjects at either end of the spectrum and disagreed about the subjects in the middle for whom the diagnosis was a closer question.

(b) Recommendation

The American Bar Association Commission on Law and Aging, in conjunction with the American Psychological Association and the National College of Probate Judges, has prepared a template for a clinical evaluation of the respondent. \(^{19}\) We have studied it and expanded upon it with suggestions from other sources. It is extensive. Parts of it may not be relevant in some cases, and we recommend that those be excised. The judge should not be required to order the respondent to submit to a clinical evaluation, but we recommend its consideration in every case.

Although Utah Rule of Civil Procedure 35 governs the examination of a party when the party’s “mental or physical condition … is in controversy,” we recommend that a special rule govern the respondent’s examination in protective proceedings. Rule 35 was written for personal injury cases and contains provisions inappropriate to these circumstances.

The Wingspan Conference recommends that “the pre-hearing process include a separate court investigator or visitor, who must identify the respondent’s wants, needs, and values.”\(^{20}\) The 1997 Uniform Act also recommends that a court visitor be required. \(^{21}\) Utah law provides that the court may appoint a visitor to interview the respondent, but there is no requirement to do so, unless the petitioner proposes that the respondent be excluded from the hearing. By omitting this step, the court denies itself critical independent information with which to assess the respondent’s functional abilities and limitations, values and history, all of which affect the fiduciary’s appointment and authority.

\(^{17}\) Judicial Determination of Capacity, p 8.
\(^{19}\) Judicial Determination of Capacity, pp 25-32.
\(^{21}\) 1997 Uniform Act Section 305.
An evaluation by a multidisciplinary team, as in Colorado, may be beyond the means of nearly all families, but we recommend at least the perspective of a court visitor in addition to that of the clinician. Evaluation by a medical professional will probably occur in a clinical setting, but evaluation by the court visitor should, whenever possible, be in the respondent’s usual environment and with all due consideration for his or her privacy and dignity.\(^\text{22}\)

Evidence from family, friends, colleagues, religious ministers, care providers and others will provide the judge with information about who this respondent is, and will enable the judge to decide, not just the respondent’s capacity, but also the details of the guardianship plan. A fuller picture of the respondent – gained through more complete evidence – is desperately needed.

(6) Respondent’s lawyer

Under Utah law, the court must appoint a lawyer to represent a respondent in a guardianship proceeding\(^\text{23}\) and may do so in a conservatorship proceeding\(^\text{24}\) unless the respondent has a lawyer of his or her own choice. Given the importance of the proceedings, it is critical that the respondent have a lawyer.

(a) Current availability of lawyers

Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake and Utah Legal Services are the primary free legal service providers in Utah. Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake is limited to Salt Lake County. Utah Legal Services represents clients throughout the state. Both represent clients in a variety of cases for which the client must income qualify or meet other eligibility requirements.

Given the importance of the proceedings, it is critical that the respondent have a lawyer.

With intermittent grant funding, the Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake represents for free the respondent in a guardianship petition in Salt Lake County if the respondent meets the income guidelines. There is no age restriction.

Utah Legal Services, by contract with many of the counties under the Older Americans Act\(^\text{25}\), represents for free the respondent in a guardianship petition if the respondent is 60 or older and if there is sufficient funding through the local Area Agency on Aging. There is no income-qualification under the Older Americans Act, but resources are limited, so the local Area Agencies on Aging find legitimate ways to prioritize services. If there is not sufficient funding through the local Area Agency on Aging, Utah Legal Services tries to recruit a lawyer to represent the respondent for free. If the respondent is under 60, Utah Legal Services tries to recruit a lawyer to represent the respondent for free, but the respondent must meet income guidelines.

\(^\text{24}\) Utah Code Section 75-5-407(1).

\(^\text{25}\) Utah Legal Services is not the exclusive provider. Some counties contract with individual lawyers.
Sometimes a respondent will have a lawyer who has represented her or him in another matter. The respondent – or perhaps the petitioner on the respondent’s behalf – will seek representation by that lawyer. Sometimes that lawyer may be the “family” lawyer, whose interests may be divided between the respondent and the family members who are trying to do their best by the respondent. In some cases the petitioner’s lawyer might recruit a lawyer to represent the respondent.

We focus on the need for representation of an indigent respondent because that is where the need is most acute. But the private bar is doing its share. Private attorneys represent respondents and are paid by the respondent in very traditional arrangements. Lawyers represent respondents for free or for a reduced charge when recruited by the Office of Public Guardian, Utah Legal Services or Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake.

However, some respondents simply will be missed by the conditional and informal arrangements for free legal representation, yet they cannot afford to hire a lawyer.

Regardless who represents the respondent, the question “Who pays?” is equally critical. Utah law provides that if the petition is “without merit,” the petitioner pays court costs and the respondent’s lawyer. Otherwise, the respondent must pay for representation, but the respondent often cannot afford an attorney even though s/he may not qualify for one of the free Utah programs.

Finally, how qualified is the lawyer? Lawyers from Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake and Utah Legal Services are highly qualified and overworked. Their pro bono recruitment efforts usually produce a lawyer qualified for the case, which may run from well-qualified for a complex case to well-qualified for simpler, uncontested cases. In the experience of committee members, however, and from testimony by lawyers experienced in this area, there are many cases in which the respondent’s lawyer lacks the qualifications to present the respondent’s case for capacity or for less restrictive alternatives.

(b) Recommendation

The Wingspread Conference recommends that “courts should help develop an ongoing system that will ensure effective legal representation of respondents.”26 We recommend an ambitious program to give real effect to that policy: to ensure in a systemic way that respondents are represented by qualified attorneys.

(i) Conservatorships

We begin by recommending legislation to require representation for the respondent in petitions to appoint a conservator as well as in petitions to appoint a guardian. Utah law currently requires representation in the latter case and permits it in the former. The reason for the distinction usually involves the explanation that a conservator controls only the respondent’s property, while a guardian controls the respondent’s person. But in our society, a person who loses the right to decide how to invest and spend money and how to manage property has lost just as much as the person who loses the right to vote or to make health care decisions. Representation in conservatorships is just as necessary as in guardianships. Mandatory representation in both types of appointments is recommended by the National Probate Court Standards.\textsuperscript{27}

(ii) Roster

The Wingspread Conference recommends that “training should be … required for attorneys who wish to be appointed as counsel in guardianship cases….”\textsuperscript{28} To better ensure the qualifications of the lawyer representing the respondent, we recommend that, unless the respondent has the lawyer of his or her own choosing, the district court appoint a lawyer from a roster of lawyers maintained by the Utah State Bar under the authority of the Supreme Court. There should be minimum requirements for training, observation, mentoring and continuing education to qualify for the roster. We recommend an appropriation to pay for some of the appointments, but all appointments should be from the roster, unless the respondent has retained his or her own lawyer.

The appointment would be, essentially, a rotation: When a petition in a protective proceeding is filed, the clerk would offer the appointment to the first lawyer in order on the roster willing to accept assignments in that county. The lawyer would review the case for conflicts of interest and other factors that might impede the lawyer from independent and zealous representation of the respondent. If the lawyer declines the appointment, the clerk would offer the appointment to the next lawyer on the roster. Upon accepting the appointment, the judge would enter an order appointing the lawyer, and the clerk would move the lawyer's name to the bottom of the roster.

The executive director of the Utah State Bar would maintain and publish a roster of lawyers qualified to represent respondents in protective proceedings. A lawyer would be added to the list in the order in which s/he certifies to meeting the minimum requirements. To qualify for the roster, a lawyer would have to:

- acquire at least four hours of MCLE or four hours of accredited law school education in the law and procedures of protective proceedings;
- observe, serve as co-counsel, and serve as lead counsel with a mentor representing at least one respondent, which may be satisfied under Rule 14-807, Law student assistance; and
- be recommended by one’s mentors.

To be retained on the roster the lawyer would biannually certify to have:

- acquired at least two hours of MCLE in the law and procedures of protective proceedings; and
- represented at least two indigent respondents.

Minimum education requirements would be part of and not in addition to existing mandatory continuing legal education requirements. If there are not at least two indigent respondents to be represented, that requirement would be waived.

\textsuperscript{27} National Probate Court Standards. Standards 3.3.5 and 3.4.5.
director should be able to waive the initial or continuing requirements that show competence if the lawyer demonstrates by education and experience proficiency in the law and procedures of protective proceedings.

Even if the respondent has retained a lawyer, the court should have the discretion to evaluate the lawyer’s qualifications and, if they are found lacking, to appoint someone from the roster.

(iii) Money

The Wingspan Conference recommends that “innovative and creative ways be developed by which funding sources are categorically directed to guardianship.”29 Finding the money to pay lawyers willing to take assignments is the most difficult part of this program. Until the significant recession and the decline in state revenue, we were prepared to recommend using public funds to pay lawyers to represent indigent respondents who do not qualify for other free programs. Under current economic conditions, it would be futile and irresponsible to pursue that objective, but we continue to believe the objective is sound. So we describe our proposal but include no implementing legislation. We do, however, recommend that the courts and the Bar pursue funds that might be available through and Justice for All, the Utah Bar Foundation, grants, and other sources. And we recommend that the Utah Access to Justice Council and the Utah State Bar organize and support a panel of trained, pro bono attorneys.

The needs of the most indigent are being met – as well as they can be met – through Legal Aid Society of Salt Lake and Utah Legal Services. We mean not to interfere with those services. Utah Legal Services can serve clients whose income is below 200% of the federal poverty guideline, so we start our program where they leave off.

We recommend that a lawyer appointed from the roster be paid $50 per hour if the respondent’s income is between 200% and 300% of the federal poverty guidelines or the respondent does not have sufficient income, assets, credit, or other means to pay the expenses of legal services without depriving the respondent or the respondent’s family of food, shelter, clothing, and other necessities. In future years, the $50 per hour wage would be adjusted for inflation. Respondents who do not meet this test would pay for representation from their estates, based on the ability to pay.

(iv) Role of respondent’s lawyer

Currently, Utah law distinguishes between the role of the respondent’s lawyer in guardianship and conservatorship cases. If the petition is to appoint a guardian, the lawyer has the traditional duty to “represent” the respondent.30 If the petition is to appoint a conservator, the lawyer “has the powers and duties of a guardian ad litem.”31 Under the 1997 Uniform Act, the court appoints a lawyer to “represent” the respondent in guardianship and conservatorship cases.32 recommend that the role of counsel is to advocate for his or her client.\textsuperscript{33} The Wingspread Conference\textsuperscript{34} and the Wingspan Conference\textsuperscript{35} recommend zealous advocacy by the respondent’s lawyer.

We concur that the lawyer’s role is to represent the respondent independently and zealously, just as in any other attorney-client relationship. If the court sees a need for an independent voice to represent the respondent’s best interests, the court can appoint a guardian ad litem. Rule of Professional Conduct 1.14 already advises the lawyer on representing a person of diminished capacity,\textsuperscript{36} and that rule has recently been revised, in keeping with the ABA Ethics 2000 Commission and the recommendations of the Wingspan Conference,\textsuperscript{37} to allow the lawyer greater flexibility to take protective action. The Probate Code should not interfere with that relationship.

\textbf{(7) Petitioner’s lawyer}

Utah law does not contain any provisions for petitioner’s representation in a guardianship proceeding, but permits the petitioner in a conservatorship proceeding to charge the cost of his or her lawyer to the respondent’s estate.\textsuperscript{38} There is no sound reason to distinguish the two.

Public policy should encourage family members to serve as guardians as well as conservators. Family members know and love the respondent better than anyone. Without family members willing to serve, the role falls to the Office of Public Guardian, which will increase the cost to the state. The tasks of a guardian and conservator are already difficult and time-consuming. The recommendations in this report, although they will improve the process, also will increase the cost.

If a protective proceeding is legally necessary to benefit the respondent, and if the respondent’s estate is ample enough to provide for the respondent and still pay the expense of that process, then the court or conservator should be permitted to pay reasonable and necessary fees and expenses from the estate. This is the conclusion of the 1997 Uniform Act.\textsuperscript{39}

If a petition is brought in good faith with the goal of protecting the respondent, and the court appoints a guardian or conservator, or enters some other protective order, then the petitioner's costs should be paid, if possible, by the respondent's estate. This will encourage family members who may hesitate to file a protective proceeding because of their own lack of funds. It is far better to expend the estate to protect the respondent than to preserve it for the heirs.

There should be restrictions. The petition should be found to have been brought in good faith and prosecuted responsibly. The costs and fees should be reasonable and necessary. The petition should result in the appointment of a guardian or conservator or in another order that benefits the respondent. And the respondent’s estate must be able to afford the expense.

The Legislature rejected a similar policy in the 2005 General Session, but we believe it to be a sound policy, and urge the Legislature to reconsider.

(8) Court process

(a) The hearing

Although called a “hearing" by statute, it has all of the trappings of a trial. The respondent has the right to be present and to be represented by a lawyer. The respondent has the right to present evidence and cross-examine witnesses. The respondent in a guardianship proceeding has the right to a trial by jury, although that right is seldom exercised, and is not included in the 1997 Uniform Act. Much more concerning than the infrequency of trial by jury is the frequency with which the respondent is absent from the hearing. The statute establishes the respondent’s right to be present, but in our experience, the respondent often is not.

The due process hearing rights that are uniformly recommended are all recognized by Utah law. There is no inadequacy in that regard. Rather, the inadequacy is in practicing what the law requires or permits.

Beyond ensuring the rights already established, we recommend that, if possible, the court conduct the hearing in a setting that is accessible by and comforting to the respondent. This would include ADA accommodations, but also:

- holding the hearing later in the morning, rather than first thing;
- more open space in the hearing room to accommodate wheelchairs;
- holding the hearing in chambers or other less intimidating surroundings; and
- slowing the frenetic pace of too many hearings in too short a time.

We began this report by likening the effect of appointing a guardian or conservator to a criminal sentence or commitment to a mental health facility. The deprivation of civil liberties is almost as great. Therefore, just as in a criminal or commitment proceeding, we recommend that the judge appoint a certified interpreter at state expense if the respondent does not adequately speak or understand English. The forms and other public information and instructions recommended later in this report should be translated into Spanish. We recommend that Rule 3-306 be amended to add protective proceedings to the list of casetypes requiring a court-appointed certified interpreter.

(b) Mediation

Mediation would seem to be particularly suitable for adult guardianship cases for a number of reasons. These cases usually 1) involve ongoing family relationships and the inevitably-attendant emotional issues; 2) include sensitive information that the participants would prefer to keep private; 3) sometimes require flexible and creative resolutions; and 4) often involve parties who cannot afford protracted litigation. Yet the use of mediation in adult guardianship cases raises a host of questions. ... An adult guardianship case, by its very nature, centers on an individual whose capacity is in question. Guardianship adjudications are designed to offer maximum protection to that individual because he or she may not be capable of protecting himself or herself. Mediation, on the other hand, is grounded in the principle of self-determination and presumes that the parties are capable of participating in the process and bargaining for their own interests. Can these two concepts be reconciled?

Although mediation of guardianship and conservatorship proceedings is not without its critics, many organizations and individuals recommend that mediation be an integral part of those cases, and we concur.

Professor Radford concludes, after a thorough analysis from which we draw liberally, that mediation is appropriate in guardianship and conservatorship cases, but that these cases present several issues that must be carefully considered by the mediator and the judge.

(i) Capacity of respondent to mediate

The ADA Mediation Guidelines recommend special factors for the mediator to consider when mediating with a person of potentially diminished capacity:

1. The mediator should ascertain that a party understands the nature of the mediation process, who the parties are, the role of the mediator, the parties' relationship to the mediator, and the issues at hand. The mediator should determine whether the party can assess options and make and keep an agreement.

2. If a party appears to have diminished capacity or if a party's capacity to mediate is unclear, the ... mediator should determine whether a disability

43 See e.g., Winsor C. Schmidt, Jr., What is Known and not Known about the State of the Guardianship and Public Guardianship System Thirteen Years After the Wingspread National Guardianship Symposium. 31 Stetson L. Rev. 1027, 1032-1033 (2002). is interfering with the capacity to mediate and whether an accommodation will enable the party to participate effectively.

3. The … mediator should also determine whether the party can mediate with support.

ADA Mediation Guidelines, Guideline I.D.45

Even if the respondent lacks capacity to participate, the ADA Guidelines permit mediation if s/he is present and a surrogate represents the respondent’s interests, values and preferences and makes decisions for the respondent.46

[The Center for Social Gerontology’s] Adult Guardianship Mediation Manual also offers mediators a set of guidelines for determining whether the adult has capacity to participate in the mediation. These guidelines appear in the form of eight questions:

1) Can the respondent understand what is being discussed?
2) Does he or she understand who the parties are?
3) Can the respondent understand the role of the mediator?
4) Can the respondent listen to and comprehend the story of the other party?
5) Can he or she generate options for a solution?
6) Can he or she assess options?
7) Is the respondent expressing a consistent opinion?
8) Can he or she make and keep an agreement?

(ii) Power imbalance among the parties

The mediator must remain alert to power imbalances among the parties and take appropriate measures to neutralize them, such as:

- ensuring that the respondent is adequately represented;
- structuring presentations so that the respondent is allowed to speak first;
- ensuring the neutrality of the mediation site;
- encouraging experts to convey information in an understandable manner; and
- intervening to clear up confusion and assuage the respondent’s fears. 47

The more subtle obstacle to self-determination by an adult … is the tendency of family members, attorneys, judges, and perhaps even mediators to want to structure a framework that is protective of the adult but that may not necessarily protect the adult's fundamental right to autonomy. … The mediator, as guardian of the principle of self-determination, must remain alert to the distinct possibility that the other, "saner," parties to the mediation are asserting their own values rather than reflecting the values of the adult.

45 http://www.cojcr.org/ada.html
(iii) Mediator training

The Wingspan Conference recommends that “standards and training for mediators be developed in conjunction with the Alternative Dispute Resolution community to address mediation in guardianship related matters.” We concur.

Mediation of protective proceedings requires training and experience that the Utah community may not yet have. Because mediation of protective proceedings has a relatively short history in Utah, because the only specialized training of court-annexed ADR providers focuses on family law disputes, and because of the special risks of mediating protective proceedings, we encourage the mediation community to develop training classes and materials along the lines recommended by the Wingspread Conference:

(a) the rights and procedures applicable in guardianship proceedings;
(b) the aging process and disability conditions, and the myths and stereotypes concerning older and disabled persons;
(c) the skills required to effectively communicate with disabled and elderly persons;
(d) the applicable medical and mental health terminology and the possible effects of various medications on the respondent; and
(e) services and programs available in the community for elderly and/or disabled persons.

The Center for Social Gerontology also offers a substantial curriculum for mediation training in guardianship proceedings.

(c) Probate commissioner

The Wingspan Conference recommends judicial specialization in guardianships, however, we do not. We recommend extensive judicial education and training, but we do not recommend appointing a specialized probate judge. Training for all will have to serve the objectives of specialization by a few.

Although the clerks’ office in some districts has a recognizable probate department, the district court has favored the general assignment of cases among its judges for many years. The same factors that make specialization in probate attractive – small caseload, specialized procedures, and expansive geography – also work against specialization. At some point, there may be sufficient caseload to merit an arrangement similar to the district court’s “tax court,” a handful of judges from around the state, who are assigned the regular variety of cases from their home district and who are assigned probate cases from all of the districts when a case is contested.

We do recommend that the district courts consider appointing commissioners to specialize in probate law much as they have done in family law. In the Third District, instead of adding a judge when growth warrants it, consider appointing a probate commissioner – not a guardianship specialist, but a probate specialist. In the other urban districts – Districts Two, Four and Five – there may be sufficient caseload between family and probate cases to warrant a commissioner.

During our study, the Judicial Council asked for our recommendations on public access to guardianship and conservatorship records. We recommended that, except for the appointment order and letters, which must be public, guardianship and conservatorship records be classified as “private”: available to the court and to the parties, but not to the public. Rule 4-202.02 has since been amended accordingly.

Our research showed that, of the states that make an express classification, about half allow public access and half do not.53

As we noted in our earlier recommendation: guardianship and conservatorship records and hearings historically have been public not because of any deliberate decision, but because no one seems to have asked whether they should be private. Hearings should remain public. Public scrutiny controls abuse and assures people that the authority granted by the court is appropriate. Public records serve this important goal just as much as public hearings, but court records contain significant medical information, financial information, living situation, and personal identifying information about the respondent. The respondent, almost by definition, is vulnerable to being victimized and the court records provide the information with which to do so. The combination of public hearings and private records, while not common, has precedent in juvenile court cases and adoption cases.

There are records that can safely remain public. The appointment order and letters have been mentioned. These are necessarily public because they need to be shared on a regular basis with people not associated with the case; sometimes even recorded as part of public land records. The existence of the case (case name and number) and the register of actions or docket should also be public. The latter of these was swept in with our earlier recommendation because of the district court case management system’s inability to differentiate the docket from the rest of the case. But there is no privacy or security interest to be protected, and the administrative office of the courts is working to sequester the documents filed in a guardianship or conservatorship case while allowing public access to the record of the document having been filed.

(9) Fiduciary authority

(a) Less restrictive alternatives to guardianship or conservatorship

Currently, in order to appoint a guardian with plenary authority, the court must make a finding that nothing less is “adequate.” We believe that the petition should review the alternatives to appointing a guardian or conservator and explain why none are appropriate. The hearing should include evidence to support that conclusion.

Less restrictive alternatives may go unexplored simply because of unfamiliarity, so we describe some here. The following options are some alternatives to guardianship or conservatorship (There may be others.) that may meet the respondent’s needs. All require the respondent’s cooperation. Some require the respondent’s capacity.

(i) Alternatives for financial decisionmaking

Representative payee. Some federal agencies, such as the Social Security Administration, can appoint a person to receive benefits on behalf of a beneficiary who is unable to administer his or her finances. A representative payee maintains control over the benefits, signs all checks drawn on the benefits, and spends the benefit money to meet the needs of the beneficiary. A person applying to an agency to be a representative payee does not first need to be appointed as a guardian or conservator.

Trust. Trusts can be useful planning tools for incapacity because they can be established and controlled by a competent person and continue if that person later becomes incapacitated. The trustee holds legal title to the property transferred to the trust and has the duty to use the property as provided in the trust agreement which can be for the benefit of the trustor during his or her lifetime. Trusts are regulated by statute and should be drafted by a lawyer.

Power of attorney. Power of attorney is a document in which a person authorizes an agent to act when the person cannot. The power of attorney can be for a specified time or until the person cancels it. The power of attorney can grant a specific authority or grant more general authority to act in financial transactions. Some common powers of attorney:

- Open, maintain or close bank accounts or brokerage accounts
- Sell, lease or maintain real estate
- Access safe deposit boxes
- Make financial investments
- Borrow money, mortgage property, or renew debts
- Prepare and file income tax returns
- Vote at corporate meetings
- Purchase insurance for the principal’s benefit
- Defend, prosecute, or settle a lawsuit
- Start or carry on a business
- Employ professional assistants, such as lawyers, accountants, and real estate agents
- Apply for benefits and participate in governmental programs
- Transfer property to a trustee
- Disclaim an inheritance

Joint bank account. In a joint bank account a trusted friend or family member co-owns the account with the person. Both have ownership of and access to the account, so great caution should be taken.

Automatic banking. A person might retain control of his or her own affairs with the help of automatic deposits and automatic bill payments.

Trusted help. A person may be able to manage his or her own financial affairs simply with help, either by a trusted family member or friend or by a professional. Such an assistant could help organize a budget, write checks for the person’s signature, assist with related paperwork, and propose and explain investments. Be watchful for undue influence by the person providing help.

(ii) Alternatives for health care decisionmaking

Advance health care directive. Advance directives are instructions a person gives to health care providers and family to make sure his or her wishes regarding health care are followed.

Power of attorney. Power of attorney can also be used for health care decisions. The agent is required to make health care decisions according to directions provided by the principal.

(iii) Crisis intervention

Mediation, counseling, and respite support services. Counseling may be helpful if a person does not lack capacity, but is unwilling to agree to reasonable requests. A mediator may be able to help reach a compromise. Respite care provides temporary relief to the caregiver if the caregiver – or the person cared for – is aged 60 or older.
The respite may be brief, 2-3 hours, or longer than 24 hours, and the care may take place at the individual’s residence or elsewhere.

(iv) Organizations willing to help

Area Agencies on Aging administer programs for those aged 60 and over such as:

- Access to other services: transportation, outreach, information and referral;
- Community services: congregate meals, legal services, case management, and continuing education;
- In-home services: respite care, home health, homemaker, home-delivered meals and chore maintenance; and
- Services to residents of care-providing facilities.

Community based services. There are free and low-cost services offered by government agencies, religious organizations and others, such as home nursing, home health aides, homemakers, home delivered meals, mental health services, and transportation.

(b) Fiduciary’s limited authority

If the respondent is incapacitated and a guardian is needed, plenary authority, except when the respondent is completely incapacitated, is universally condemned.\(^{57}\) Although plenary appointments are relatively common under our current statutes, even current law directs the judge to “prefer” limited authority over plenary appointments.\(^ {58}\) Unfortunately, after that brief admonishment, the statute does nothing to support the result, other than require a finding that nothing else will do.

The order should be tailored to the respondent’s particular limitations.

The guardian’s authority should be presumed limited to the authority expressly stated in the order.

The respondent should retain all rights, power, authority and discretion not expressly granted to the guardian by statute or court order.

We believe that the “petition and order should include detailed statements of the respondent’s functional capabilities and limitations”.\(^{59}\) The hearing should include evidence of the same. The order should be tailored to the respondent’s particular limitations. In our proposed statutes, rather than presuming full authority and requiring an express limitation of it, as the Code does now,\(^ {60}\) the guardian’s authority should be presumed limited to the authority expressly stated in the order. Only by listing all available authority would the court be able to make a plenary appointment, which should require

\(^{58}\) Utah Code Section 75-5-304(2).

\(^{60}\) Utah Code Section 75-5-312(2).
findings supported by clear and convincing evidence that such a result is necessary.\(^{61}\)

There is no simple formula that will help judges make the determination. The following broad classification could serve as an initial schema:

If minimal or no incapacities, petition not granted, use less restrictive alternative.

If severely diminished capacities in all areas or if less restrictive interventions have failed, use plenary guardianship.

If mixed strengths and weaknesses, use limited guardianship.

The cases in which there are “mixed areas” of strengths and weaknesses present the greatest challenge – and the greatest opportunity – for the “judge as craftsman” to tailor a limited order to the specific needs and abilities of the individual.

(i) Guardian or Conservator?

In determining the appropriate authority, the judge should decide whether the respondent’s limitations require a guardian, a conservator or both. And this ultimate decision should be reflected in the petition that starts the case. Practice over the years has degenerated to the point that many, probably most, petitioners request appointment to both offices, when one or the other alone might do. Petitioners, who know only the basic idea that a conservator is responsible for the respondent’s estate and a guardian is responsible for the respondent’s care and well-being, may not realize the significant additional fiscal responsibility that comes with being a conservator.

Currently, guardians have some modest authority over the respondent’s estate.\(^{62}\) We propose delineating the guardian’s authority for many everyday property transactions, reserved to a conservator if one is appointed, that may reduce the need for a conservator. Only if the petitioner requests authority beyond these transactions and the judge agrees that it is needed should a conservator be appointed.

Under current law, a guardian may receive the respondent’s money and property and has a duty to “conserve any excess for the ward’s needs,”\(^{63}\) a simple standard met by a simple savings account. A conservator, on the other hand, must meet the much higher standards of a trustee,\(^{64}\) exercising reasonable care, skill, and caution as would a prudent investor\(^{65}\) and making reasonable efforts to verify facts\(^{66}\) while investing and reinvesting the respondent’s estate.\(^{67}\) Family guardians probably do not have that acumen, do not need that authority, and would do well to leave the responsibility to a professional conservator or seek professional advice in carrying out a conservator’s duties.

(ii) Retained rights – Restrictions on authority

The respondent should retain all rights, power, authority and discretion not expressly granted to the guardian by statute or court order.

The right of the respondent to vote in governmental elections is particularly difficult. The right cannot be assigned to the guardian in any event, but when is it properly denied to the respondent? We propose the standard recommended by the ABA. The respondent retains the right to vote in governmental elections unless “the court finds [by clear and convincing evidence] that the person cannot communicate, with or without accommodations, a specific desire to participate in the voting process.”68 It would be helpful if further statutory and practical changes were implemented to accommodate voting by respondents determined to be incapacitated, but that is beyond the scope of this report.

The guardian should not be able to:

- consent to commitment of the respondent to a mental retardation facility (The guardian should petition the court for an order under Title 62A, Chapter 5, Part 3, Admission to Mental Retardation Facility.);
- consent to commitment of the respondent to a mental health authority (The guardian should petition the court for an order under Title 62A, Chapter 15, Part 6, Utah State Hospital and Other Mental Health Facilities.);
- consent to sterilization of the respondent; (The guardian should petition the court for an order under Title 62A, Chapter 6, Sterilization of Handicapped Person.); or
- consent to termination of the parental rights in the respondent or of the respondent’s parental rights in another. (The guardian should petition the juvenile court for an order to terminate parental rights under Title 78A, Chapter 6, Part 5, Termination of Parental Rights Act.)

Unless permitted by the court, the guardian should not be able to:

- consent to the admission of the respondent to a psychiatric hospital or other mental health care facility;
- consent to participation in medical research, electroconvulsive therapy or other shock treatment, experimental treatment, forced medication with psychotropic drugs, abortion, psychosurgery, a procedure that restricts the respondent’s rights, or to be a living organ donor;
- consent to termination of life-sustaining treatment if the respondent has never had health care decisionmaking capacity;
- consent to name change, adoption, marriage, annulment or divorce of the respondent;
- prosecute, defend and settle legal actions, including administrative proceedings, on behalf of the respondent;
- establish or move the respondent’s dwelling place outside of Utah; or restrict the respondent’s physical liberty, communications or social activities more than reasonably necessary to protect the respondent or others from harm.

(iii) Maximizing respondent’s independence – Decisionmaking standard

Our Supreme Court requires that when appointing a guardian, the court “must consider the interest of the ward in retaining as broad a power of self-determination as is consistent with the reason for appointing a guardian of the person.”

Further, “the court's order should require the guardian to attempt to maximize self-reliance, autonomy and independence….”

Reacquiring capacity is legally and practically possible, and the guardian should take reasonable steps to that end.

Regardless whether the respondent might reacquire capacity, maximizing independence includes applying the “substituted judgment” standard when making decisions on the respondent’s behalf. When the guardian or conservator uses the substituted judgment standard s/he makes the decision that the respondent would have made when competent. The fiduciary therefore has a duty to learn the respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior that form the basis of what respondent would have done. Substituted judgment is the decisionmaking standard used in all circumstances except those that permit the “best interest” standard to be used.

The fiduciary may use the best interest decisionmaking standard when:

(a) following the respondent’s wishes would cause her or him harm;
(b) the guardian or conservator cannot determine the respondent’s wishes; or
(c) the respondent has never had capacity.

When the guardian or conservator uses the best interest standard, s/he makes the decision that is the least intrusive, least restrictive, and most normalizing course of action to accommodate the respondent’s particular functional limitations.

(iv) Respondent’s values, preferences and patterns

The respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior should play a big role in shaping the outcome of a petition to appoint a guardian or conservator. Not only are they important in determining capacity, as discussed in Section (4) (c), but also in determining who the fiduciary should be, the fiduciary’s authority, and even in some of the fiduciary’s decisions, such as medical and financial decisions and living arrangements.

If the court and the fiduciary are to give any realistic meaning to the standard of “substituted judgment,” it is critical to learn the respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior that form the basis of what the respondent would have done.

standard of "substituted judgment," it is critical to learn what those values, preferences and patterns are. The respondent may have something to say. The clinician and court visitor should include the respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior as part of their investigation. Family, friends, colleagues, religious ministers, care providers and others also may have useful evidence.

(10) Emergency appointments

Current Utah law permits the emergency appointment of a temporary guardian, but there is no similar provision for a temporary conservator. Emergency appointments are sometimes necessary, but our current statute provides less protection to the respondent than the Rules of Civil Procedure provide to a defendant for a temporary restraining order. The 1997 Uniform Act addresses these shortcomings and we have integrated many of its features into our proposed legislation. We have also integrated the features of a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction, procedures lawyers and judges are familiar with.

The authorities differ on whether a regular petition should be filed with the emergency petition. Standard 3.3.6(a)(2) of the National Probate Court Standards recommends it. The 1997 Uniform Act Section 312 recommends against it. The Wingspan Conference also seems to recommend that a regular petition be required.

The commentary to the 1997 Uniform Act argues that requiring a petition "lends an air of inevitability that a permanent guardian should be appointed;" that respondent’s need for a guardian might be temporary and his or her long-term needs might be met by other mechanisms.

Our current Utah statute is silent on the question, and usually courts do not require a regular petition. We endorse that model, for the reasons explained in the 1997 Uniform Act, and simply because requiring a regular petition, especially the more detailed petition we envision, in the midst of an emergency is unrealistic. On the other hand, the court must guard against the emergency appointment becoming de facto permanent because of the failure to monitor the appointment.

Our proposal requires a hearing on the emergency petition and notice to the respondent unless the respondent would be harmed before a hearing could be held. Only in the latter case, may the judge consider evidence of the emergency ex parte. The guardian’s authority would be limited to what is justified by the emergency and expressly stated in the order. A hearing on the emergency appointment must be held within 5 days after the appointment and notice of the appointment and hearing given within 2 days. An emergency order without hearing and notice would expire after 5 days. An emergency order with hearing and notice would expire after 60 days.\textsuperscript{75}

\textbf{(11) “School guardianships”}

In 1985, the Legislature attempted to create bifurcated authority to appoint a guardian for a child who resides outside of Utah, giving the authority to the district court and local school boards. In the vernacular, these appointments have become known as “school guardianships.” Their primary purpose appears to be to prevent a non-resident from avoiding non-resident tuition. Using the law of guardianship to answer such a simple question is poor policy. These appointments simply do not fit the generally accepted model for appointing a guardian for a minor, and we recommend that they be eliminated.

Schools need the authority to distinguish resident from non-resident, and the child needs a guardian to make myriad decisions about schooling. Our recommendations do not interfere with these objectives, but the general laws of residency and guardianship are sufficient to reach these objectives. There is no need for a special process that was so poorly drafted over two decades ago that it removes from the district court the authority to enter the orders the schools rely upon.

The Legislature intended to give the district court jurisdiction to appoint a “school guardian,” but the statutes’ plain language fails to do so. “A person becomes a guardian of a minor by acceptance of a testamentary appointment, through appointment by a local school board under Section 53A-2-202, or upon appointment by the court.”\textsuperscript{76}
“The court may appoint a guardian for an unemancipated minor if all parental rights of custody have been terminated or suspended by circumstances or prior court order.”\textsuperscript{77} Since the parents’ custodial rights have not been terminated or suspended, the court has no authority to appoint a guardian. Although the district courts have been handling these appointments for many years, they have not had jurisdiction.

For school tuition purposes, a minor is treated as a Utah resident, even though the minor’s parent or guardian is not, if “the child lives with a resident of the district who is a responsible adult and whom the district agrees to designate as the child's legal guardian under Section 53A-2-202….”\textsuperscript{78} Section 53A-2-202 clearly gives the local school boards the authority to “designate” someone as a child’s legal guardian and just as clearly gives the local school boards the discretion to opt out of that authority. Most of the local boards have opted out. Thus, there is a right to have a guardian appointed, but \begin{quote}

Under current law, a school board may permit a non-resident minor to attend school in Utah and may treat a non-resident minor as a Utah resident, even without the appointment of a guardian.
\end{quote}

\textsuperscript{75} Sixty days conforms to the 1997 Uniform Act, Section 312, but it is twice as long as current Utah law. We believe that by imposing a more rigorous process on the emergency appointment, it is safe to extend the time in which to conduct the medical and social evaluations and prepare evidence for the regular hearing.
\textsuperscript{76} Utah Code Section 75-5-201.
\textsuperscript{77} Utah Code Section 75-5-204.
\textsuperscript{78} Section 53A-2-201(2)(b).
technically no forum in which to do so. The district court does not have the authority, and the school boards have opted out.

The petitioner must file the parents’ affidavit as evidence of the parents’ consent to the termination of parental rights, the appointment of the guardian and the minor’s intent to reside in Utah. If the parent is not available to swear out the affidavit, the proposed guardian may do so on the parents’ behalf. The Legislature has since passed laws imposing significantly more protections and requirements for relinquishing parental rights. Those laws certainly do not permit anyone other than the parent to waive the parent’s rights.

The judge may deny the petition to appoint a guardian if the school proves that the primary purpose of the guardianship is to attend a Utah public school or to avoid paying non-resident tuition. Having the purpose of attending a public school or avoiding non-resident tuition may be reasons to charge non-resident tuition, but they are not sufficient reasons to deny the guardianship.

There are numerous other difficulties with the statutes regulating school guardianships. There is no need for this elaborate process. A school board may permit a non-resident minor to attend school in Utah under current law, even without the appointment of a guardian. A school board may treat a non-resident minor as a Utah resident under current law, even without the appointment of a guardian. A child may need a guardian for a variety of purposes, including school-related purposes. If there are grounds to appoint a guardian, the court should make that appointment. That appointment may affect the minor’s residency, which in turn may affect the child’s tuition, but that is governed by other Utah law. In all respects, the regular law of guardianships should apply.

(12) Appointments by will or signed writing

This is one of our more technical recommendations, and one in which we move away from current Utah law and the 1997 Uniform Act. Currently, Utah allows a person to appoint a guardian for a minor child or an incapacitated adult child or spouse by will or signed writing. A person may also nominate a guardian for a spouse or child, but the difference between a nominee and an appointee is not entirely clear. A person may nominate, but not appoint, a conservator for a spouse or child. Other designated people may nominate a guardian or conservator to replace them in the priority list of appointees.

89 Utah Code Sections 75-5-311 and 75-5-410.
The 1997 Uniform Act clarifies some points, but not others. The 1997 Uniform Act continues the distinction between appointing a guardian and nominating a conservator. It permits the appointing parent or spouse to petition the court to confirm the appointment before the parent’s or spouse’s death or incapacity but not to confirm a nomination. It permits a respondent to nominate a guardian or conservator while s/he still has capacity to do so, but it does not permit a respondent to confirm the nomination. The respondent’s nominee has top priority, but that is always subject to the court’s authority to appoint in a different order.

The 1997 Uniform Act requires the appointee, whether confirmed beforehand or not, to file an acceptance of appointment, and if not confirmed beforehand, to file a petition to confirm the appointment. The 1997 Uniform Act makes the appointment effective upon acceptance by the appointee, without ever determining that the respondent is incapacitated.\(^{90}\) There is no need for such complexity. There is need for more protection.

We propose a simpler model applicable to guardians and conservators, minors and adults that better protects the respondent’s rights. We begin with the premise that, if a guardian or conservator is to act under judicial approval, the court should make the appointment, not the parent or spouse.

A person should be able to nominate a guardian or a conservator for oneself, for one’s child or for one’s spouse. And that person should be able to petition the court to confirm the nomination and cut off the rights of others to object. It is, in effect, a contingent appointment, subject to later determining the respondent’s incapacity and determining that the appointment remains in the respondent’s best interest.

We endorse this new feature of the 1997 Uniform Act, but couch it in terms of nomination rather than appointment. A person who anticipates incapacity should be able to take comfort in the knowledge that his or her preference of guardian or conservator will be appointed at some future date; similarly for the spouse of an incapacitated person or parent of an incapacitated or minor child. Confirmation does not determine incapacity; only who will be the fiduciary. Upon the death or incapacity of the nominating person, the court would still determine the respondent’s incapacity and the limits of the fiduciary’s authority. If the nomination is not confirmed beforehand, the nominee would have his or her designated priority for appointment, subject to the usual court authority to appoint in a different order.

Our recommended approach creates a simple, uniform process for all combinations of guardians and conservators, minors and adults. And it ensures that a court will determine the nature and extent of the respondent’s incapacity and the limits of the fiduciary’s authority.

(13) Monitoring guardians and conservators

(a) Planning

\(^{90}\) 1997 Uniform Act Sections 202, 302, 303, 310, and 413.
Oversight of guardians and conservators begins with the fiduciary’s assurance to the court that s/he recognizes his or her authority, its limits and how it will be exercised. We recommend that guardians and conservators develop a plan for how they will implement the authority given them and that the plan be filed with the court. Some states require a new plan annually, but we do not. Once filed, the plan should be sufficient until there is a significant change in circumstances.

The law should allow modest deviation from the plan. Circumstances are never entirely stable, and filing a new plan for every change, no matter how slight, merely increases the burden on the fiduciary without protecting the respondent. But the law should impose liability on the fiduciary for significant deviations from the plan, and whether the deviation is slight or significant may have to be decided by the judge after the fact.

The plan will provide a baseline against which to evaluate the guardian’s or conservator’s actions, but the primary purpose of planning is not to trap the fiduciary. Rather, the purpose is to assure the court that the fiduciary knows how s/he will help manage the respondent’s life before undertaking to do so. We recommend that a form for the fiduciary’s plan be developed by the court and Bar.

(b) Annual reports

The Judicial Council and the district courts have already taken the important step of monitoring and enforcing the annual reporting requirements for guardians and conservators, and the administrative office of the courts has developed forms and an interactive web interview to guide the fiduciaries through that process. We recommend that the district court continue these essential efforts.

If the protected person’s parent is the guardian or conservator, current Utah law exempts the parent from annually reporting the protected person’s condition or estate. The 1997 Uniform Act does not contain this exception, and we recommend that it be eliminated. A protected person is no better off for having been abused or defrauded by a parent. We recommend that annual reports be required of all guardians and conservators.

(c) Volunteer court visitors

Annual reporting about the respondent’s well-being and estate are a necessary first step to protect the respondent’s personal and financial health and safety. But unless someone reviews those reports and follows up as necessary, they are of little value. Current Utah law relies for protection on objections by family members. If anyone objects, the court will conduct proceedings to decide the competing claims. If no one objects, the court is left on its own, which usually means the report will be approved.

Giving those interested in the respondent standing to object is a necessary second step, but it is inadequate. Mistreatment of the respondent or misappropriation of money,

91 Utah Code Sections 75-5-312(2)(e)(vi) and 75-5-417(5).
whether with intent or through neglect, may occur without it being obvious in the reports. Those who are interested in the respondent may themselves participate to harm or defraud. Perhaps the respondent is without family. We recommend, therefore, as does the 1997 Uniform Act,\textsuperscript{92} that the court select reports to be reviewed for errors or fraud and to follow up based on the results. We recommend that the court appoint visitors periodically to review records and interview respondents, fiduciaries and others after the appointment.

Other jurisdictions have successfully established volunteer programs to monitor appointments more closely.\textsuperscript{93} The model is very similar to the Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) program in the juvenile court, which has been so successful at helping children whose parents are accused of abuse. The courts would hire a coordinator whose job is to recruit and train volunteers to perform the duties of a court visitor. The results can be invaluable to the court.

The model came to light as we investigated methods of monitoring guardians and conservators after appointment, but court visitors should be used in the initial investigation of incapacity as well. An organized volunteer program such as this offers the best hope of also serving that need. The courts can create a volunteer program only over time, but eventually, in a fully developed volunteer program, a court visitor might:

- Before appointment
  - Interview the respondent and proposed fiduciary
  - Interview family members and others as appropriate
  - Visit the respondent’s current and proposed residences
  - Report to the court

- After appointment
  - Review inventories, management plans, annual reports and other records of guardians and conservators
  - Interview the respondent, fiduciary, family members and others as appropriate
  - Report to the court

The role of the coordinator is to build and support the program.

- Develop partnerships (AARP, CPAs, Lawyers, Law students, Law enforcement, social workers, etc.)
- Recruit volunteers from among partners
- Develop training materials
- Develop and conduct training classes for volunteers (initial and continuing)

\textsuperscript{92} 1997 Uniform Act Sections 317 and 420
We recommend that the Judicial Council hire a coordinator to build and support a volunteer court visitor program.

(d) Regulating guardians and conservators.

(i) Professional conservators

By a series of statutes, only a handful of financial institutions under permit from the Commissioner of Financial Institutions may be appointed as professional conservators. Professional conservators, therefore, are already highly regulated and nothing further should be needed.

(ii) Professional guardians

Professional guardians are regulated by virtue of their credentials in other regulated professions, but they are not regulated as guardians, and they should be. Like most states, Utah lists the priority of a person or institution to be appointed guardian. Last on that list is “a specialized care professional.” A specialized care professional is defined as a person who:

(i) has been certified or designated as a provider of guardianship services by a nationally recognized guardianship accrediting organization;

(ii) is licensed by or registered with the Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing as a health care provider including, but not limited to, a registered nurse licensed under Section 58-31b-301, a social service worker, certified social worker, or clinical social worker licensed under Section 58-60-205, a marriage and family therapist licensed under Section 58-60-305, a physician licensed under Title 58, Chapter 67, or a psychologist licensed under Title 58, Chapter 61; or

94 “Trust business” means ... a business in which one acts in any agency or fiduciary capacity, including that of ... conservator ....” Utah Code Section 7-5-1(1)(b). “Only a trust company may engage in the trust business in this state.” Utah Code Section 7-5-1(2). “Trust company” means an institution authorized to engage in the trust business under this chapter. Only the following may be a trust company....” Utah Code Section 7-5-1(1)(d) (naming four types of depository institutions and any corporation continuously engaged in trust business since 1981). “No trust company shall accept any appointment to act in any agency or fiduciary capacity, such as ... conservator.... under order or judgment of any court ... unless and until it has obtained from the commissioner a permit to act under this chapter.” Utah Code Section 7-5-2(1).

Under special circumstances (administration of the estate is supervised by the court and no trust company is willing to act as conservator after notice of the proceedings is given to every trust company doing business in Utah) the court may appoint a certified public accountant (or other listed financial professional) as conservator. Utah Code Section 7-5-1(1)(c)(viii).

95 Utah Code Section 75-5-311(4)(g).
(iii) has been approved by the court as one with specialized training and experience in the care of incapacitated persons.

Utah Code Section 75-5-311(1)(a).

So, Utah law leaves designation as a professional guardian to (1) unnamed organizations with unknown standards; (2) licensure or registration with DOPL as a health care provider, which includes unnamed professions; and (3) the judge on a case-by-case basis with no standards by which to decide.

The most prominent “nationally recognized guardianship accrediting organization” is the National Guardianship Association. According to the National Guardianship Association, “Certification entitles the guardian to represent to the courts and the public that he or she is eligible to be appointed, is not disqualified by prior conduct, agrees to abide by universal ethical standards governing a person with fiduciary responsibilities, submits to a disciplinary process, and can demonstrate through a written test an understanding of basic guardianship principles and laws.”

Certification as either a Registered Guardian or a Master Guardian is administered through the Center for Guardianship Certification (CGC), an “allied foundation” of the National Guardianship Association. According to the Center “CGC has developed a two-tiered certification process, certifying Registered Guardians (RG) at the entry level and Master Guardians (MG) with a higher level of experience and responsibility. The eligibility standards, as well as content and level of difficulty of the core competencies tested, for the Master Guardian certification are much higher. Nevertheless, both the RG and MG must affirm they will abide by the NGA Model Code of Ethics and maintain a high level of conduct to be re-certified. The same process is used to determine if either certificate should be withheld or revoked.”

The health care providers listed in the Code as potential professional guardians are not exclusive. 96 A quick review of the DOPL website shows any number of licensed professions that might be considered health care providers:

- Acupuncture
- Athletic Trainer
- Audiology
- Certified Dietitian
- Certified Medication Aide
- Certified Nurse Midwifery
- Chiropractic
- Dentistry
- Direct-Entry Midwifery
- Genetic Counseling
- Health Facility Administration
- Occupational Therapy
- Optometry
- Osteopathy
- Pharmacy
- Physical Therapy
- Physician and Surgeon
- Physician Assistant
- Podiatry
- Professional Counseling
- Psychology
- Radiology

96 Utah Code Section 75-5-311(1)(a)(ii).
All are valuable professions, and many might assist the respondent with his or her incapacity, but none are qualified professional guardians merely because of their other licensure, including those in the more traditional health care professions.

We recommend that the administrative office of the courts begin discussions with the Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing and professional guardians in Utah to draft legislation according to the DOPL model to regulate the professional guardian industry as it does other professions. We recommend that under that legislation only a guardian licensed by DOPL be permitted to be appointed as a professional guardian. Until then, we recommend that only someone certified by the National Guardianship Association be permitted to be appointed as a professional guardian.

(iii) Private fiduciaries

We recommend that before a person is appointed guardian or conservator, s/he be required to disclose convictions that have not been expunged. We recommend no automatic disqualifications, but it is important that the judge know the background of the respondent’s fiduciary, and whether an alternative might be more appropriate.

(14) Conservators

Some states have abandoned the distinctions between a guardian and conservator. If the respondent is incapacitated, the court appoints one or more fiduciaries and grants authority, which may be authority traditionally held by a guardian, authority traditionally held by a conservator, or some combination of the two. We do not recommend going so far.

However, we recommend combining the laws common to both offices in order to isolate and emphasize the laws that create differences. Many of the standards for both officers are or should be the same. Many of the procedures are or should be the same. Many of the policies are or should be the same.

But there are important differences.

- The law should continue to permit protective orders short of appointing a conservator.
- The grounds for appointing a conservator should include because the respondent is missing, detained, or unable to return to the United States.
- The reasons for a conservator or protective order should continue to include because funds are needed for the support, care, and welfare of a person entitled to be supported by the respondent.\(^7\)
- If the reason for a protective proceeding is because the respondent is missing, detained, or unable to return to the United States or the respondent’s request, there should be no need for an evaluation or a finding of incapacity.

\(^7\) Utah Code Section 75-5-401(2)(a)
The authority of a conservator provided by statute is extremely detailed, listing almost 50 permitted acts.\(^8\) So, unlike a guardian’s authority, which should be specified in the appointment order, the statutes should continue to identify the conservator’s authority which flows to the conservator by reason of being appointed. The court might then expressly limit the statutory authority.

(15) Training for judges, lawyers, court personnel and volunteers

Although they can be improved, we have found that Utah statutes currently provide reasonable due process protections.\(^9\) What seems to be lacking is the sense that this matters. Perhaps the law itself too easily permits its avoidance. Perhaps courts are pressed by contested cases and pay less attention to these in which the parties seem to agree. Perhaps it is a well-meaning but misplaced notion of doing what is thought to be in the respondent’s best interest. Whatever the reason, too many short cuts are being taken.

Education programs would seem to be the proverbial “no brainer.” For judicial training at least, some of the work is already done. The American Bar Association Commission on Law and Aging in conjunction with the American Psychological Association and the National College of Probate Judges has prepared a manual entitled Judicial Determination of Capacity of Older Adults in Guardianship Proceedings. It serves as a wonderful benchbook, and the administrative office of the courts has already included it on the court’s website among the benchbooks available to district court judges.\(^10\) But it is of little value unless it is used. We recommend it to the Judicial Institute as an outline on which to build a curriculum for district court conferences.

The Utah State Bar’s Committee on Law and Aging and Estate Planning Section sponsor CLE programs on protective proceedings, and we recommend they continue that important effort focusing on the recommendations in this report.

We recommend that the Judicial Institute develop training programs for clerks and other court personnel on the new concepts, laws and procedures of guardianships and conservatorships and on the special importance of cases in which the court shares responsibility for the care and well being of a person with diminished capacity.

We recommend that the volunteer coordinator work with the Judicial Institute to develop training programs for people who volunteer as court visitors:

- How to draw out evidence of the respondent’s capabilities and limitations.
- How to draw out evidence of the respondent’s values, preferences and patterns of behavior.
- How to evaluate the respondent’s circumstances during a guardianship or conservatorship.

\(^8\) Utah Code Sections 75-5-408 and 424.

\(^9\) Appointment of counsel, medical examination, court visitor, presence at hearing, limits on emergency appointments, and others.

How to evaluate the guardianship or conservatorship plan and annual reports.
How to recognize evidence of fraud and abuse.
Other matters on which the court visitor acts as the judge’s surrogate.

(16) Outreach and assistance for the public

We urge the lawyer who represents the fiduciary to advise his or her client of a fiduciary’s responsibilities and good practice standards. Sometimes the fiduciary does not have a lawyer, but often the petitioner, who is more probably represented, will be the fiduciary. A lawyer’s representation of the petitioner may end with the appointment, but the lawyer’s counseling on the fiduciary’s continuing responsibilities is probably the single best opportunity to impress upon the guardian or conservator that s/he is responsible for someone else’s life and that the law imposes many requirements.

The Wingspan Conference recommends that “all guardians receive training and technical assistance in carrying out their duties.” We recommend that the Committee on Resources for Self-represented Parties work with the Committee on Law and Aging of the Utah State Bar to develop web-based information and resources about guardianships, conservatorships, and less restrictive alternatives. The manual entitled Basic Guidelines for Court-Appointed Guardians and Conservators, developed by the administrative office of the courts and the Bar committee is a start, but more thorough information is needed.

We developed forms for an extensive clinical and social evaluation. Additional forms and information need to be developed. We again recommend that the Committee on Resources for Self-represented Parties work with the Committee on Law and Aging to continue this important work. We suggest to them that the following forms, as well as others that they may identify, be developed for the court’s website:

- Acceptance of appointment
- Estimated estate value worksheet
- Findings of fact and conclusions of law
- Letters of guardianship (conservatorship)
- Management plan for guardian (conservator)
- Motion and order directing services for respondent
- Motion and order to appoint a lawyer to represent a respondent
- Motion and order to appoint a court visitor
- Motion and order to evaluate respondent
- Motion and order to withdraw money from a court-guarded account
- Notice of petition and hearing
- Order appointing a guardian (conservator)
- Petition (and subsequent pleadings) to Accept Transfer of Guardianship or Conservatorship

Petition to appoint a guardian (conservator)
Petition to confirm nomination
Proof of service
Report on clinical evaluation of respondent
Report on social evaluation of respondent
Special versions of forms adapted for use in protective proceedings for a minor

(17) Information gathering

As noted in the introduction, Utah, like most states, does not systematically record very much information about guardianships and conservatorships. We believe it would be helpful to distinguish the appointment of a guardian from that of a conservator, to distinguish an appointment for a minor from an appointment for an adult. It would have been helpful in our study to know how many respondents were not represented, were not interviewed by a visitor, not examined by a physician, or not present at the hearing. We recommend that the administrative office of the courts evaluate processing of these casetypes and determine what operational information and management information would help improve processing and help evaluate the success of our recommendations. We also recommend that the courts monitor how many annual reports and accountings result in findings of abuse, termination, or other modification. Such data would be groundbreaking.

(19) Utah Protective Proceedings Act

We used as our drafting model the Uniform Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act of 1997. Although already more than a decade old, it is the most recent work of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and it is a significant improvement over the 1968 Uniform Act, which Utah adopted in 1975.

We have supplemented the Uniform Act with provisions of our own, often influenced by national authorities and the laws of other states. In some of these areas, the Uniform Act is silent. In others, we believe that other sources reflect better policy.

We have not included any of the jurisdictional provisions of the 1997 Uniform Act. Subject matter jurisdiction is granted to the district court under Article VIII, Section 5 of the Utah Constitution and Utah Code Section 78A-5-102. Personal jurisdiction is governed by the Title 75, Chapter 5b, Uniform Adult Guardianship and Protective Proceedings Act, which the Legislature adopted in the 2008 General Session and which did not exist when the Commission approved the 1997 Uniform Act.

We did not include some of the procedural parts of the 1997 Uniform Act because the subjects are sufficiently governed by the Utah Rules of Civil Procedure. We drafted other procedural parts of the 1997 Uniform Act as rules because in Utah the Supreme Court governs court procedure by rule.

Finally, we substantially reorganized the sections of the 1997 Uniform Act. On several topics, the 1997 Uniform Act includes the same or similar provisions for guardianship of a minor, guardianship of an adult, and conservatorship. We have redrafted these sections within the “general provisions” of the proposed legislation so that a single statement of the law applies to all three types of cases.
LONG TITLE

General Description:
This bill establishes the authority of the court to appoint and regulate guardians and conservators for minors and incapacitated adults and other people in need of protection.

Highlighted Provisions:
This bill:
► eliminates designation of guardians by local school boards;

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the state of Utah:

Section 1. Section 53A-2-201 is amended to read:

(1) The school district of residence of a minor child whose custodial parent or legal guardian resides within Utah is:

(a) the school district in which the custodial parent or legal guardian resides; or

(b) the school district in which the child resides:

(i) while in the custody or under the supervision of a Utah state agency;

(ii) while under the supervision of a private or public agency which is in compliance with Section 62A-4a-606 and is authorized to provide child placement services by the state;

(iii) while living with a responsible adult resident of the district, if a determination has been made in accordance with rules of the district board of education that:

(A) the child's physical, mental, moral, or emotional health would best be served by considering the child to be a resident for school purposes;

(B) exigent circumstances exist which would not permit the case to be appropriately addressed under Section 53A-2-207; and

(C) considering the child to be a resident of the district under this subsection would not violate any other law or rule of the State Board of Education; or
(iv) if the child is married or has been determined to be an emancipated minor by a court of law or by a state administrative agency authorized to make that determination.

(2) A minor child whose custodial parent or legal guardian does not reside in the state is considered to be a resident of the district in which the child lives, unless that designation violates any other law or rule of the State Board of Education, if:

(a) the child is married or an emancipated minor under Subsection (1)(b)(iv); or

(b) the child lives with a resident of the district who is a responsible adult and whom the district agrees to designate as the child's legal guardian under Section 53A-2-202; or

(c) if permissible under policies adopted by the local school board, it is established to the satisfaction of the local school board that:

(i) the child lives with a responsible adult who is a resident of the district and is the child's noncustodial parent, grandparent, brother, sister, uncle, or aunt, or other responsible adult;

(ii) the child's presence in the district is not for the primary purpose of attending the public schools;

(iii) the child's physical, mental, moral, or emotional health would best be served by considering the child to be a resident for school purposes; and

(iv) the child is prepared to abide by the rules and policies of the school and school district in which attendance is sought.

(3) (a) If admission is sought under Subsection (1)(b)(iii), or (2)(c)(b), then the district may require the person with whom the child lives to be designated as the child's custodian in a durable power of attorney, issued by the party who has legal custody of the child, granting the custodian full authority to take any appropriate action, including authorization for educational or medical services, in the interests of the child.

(b) Both the party granting and the party empowered by the power of attorney shall agree to:

(i) assume responsibility for any fees or other charges relating to the child's education in the district; and

(ii) if eligibility for fee waivers is claimed under Section 53A-12-103, provide the school district with all financial information requested by the district for purposes of determining eligibility for fee waivers.
(c) Notwithstanding Section 75-5-103, a power of attorney meeting the requirements of this section and accepted by the school district shall remain in force until the earliest of the following occurs:

(i) the child reaches the age of 18, marries, or becomes emancipated;

(ii) the expiration date stated in the document; or

(iii) the power of attorney is revoked or rendered inoperative by the grantor or grantee, or by order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(4) A power of attorney does not confer legal guardianship.

(5) Each school district is responsible for providing educational services for all children of school age who are residents of the district.

(6) Students who were enrolled in a Utah public school by October 1, 1992, and would, but for this part, have been allowed to attend public schools without payment of tuition shall be permitted to continue their attendance until graduation or termination of enrollment on the same basis as Utah resident students.

the hearing in at least three public places in the county, one of which must be at the courthouse

Section 5. Section 75-5-501 is amended to read:

75-5-501. Power of attorney not affected by disability or lapse of time -- Agent responsibilities.

(1) Whenever a principal designates another his attorney-in-fact or agent by a power of attorney in writing and the writing contains the words "This power of attorney shall not be affected by disability of the principal," or "This power of attorney shall become effective upon the disability of the principal," or similar words showing the intent of the principal that the authority conferred shall be exercisable notwithstanding his disability, the authority of the attorney-in-fact or agent is exercisable by him as provided in the power on behalf of the principal notwithstanding:

(a) later disability or incapacity of the principal at law or later uncertainty as to whether the principal is dead or alive; or

(b) the lapse of time since the execution of the instrument, unless the instrument states a time of termination.

(2) If an attorney-in-fact or agent determines that the principal has become incapacitated or disabled and the power of attorney by its terms remains in effect or becomes effective as a result of a principal's incapacity or disability, the attorney-in-fact or agent shall:

(a) notify all interested persons of his status as the power of attorney holder within 30 days of the principal's incapacitation, and provide them with his name and address;

(b) provide to any interested persons upon written request, a copy of the power of attorney; changes. The notification shall be made by the new attorney-in-fact or agent who shall then be accountable to the interested persons in accordance with Subsection (2).

(4) All acts done by the attorney-in-fact or agent pursuant to the power during any period of disability or incompetence or uncertainty as to whether the principal is dead or alive have the representative as if the principal were alive, competent, and not disabled, except as provided in Section 75-5-503.

(5) A conservator may be appointed for a principal even though the principal has a valid power of attorney in place. If a conservator thereafter is appointed for the principal, the attorney-in-fact or agent, during the continuance of the appointment, shall account to the conservator rather than the principal. The conservator, pursuant to court order as provided in Subsection 75-

75-5c-103. Incapacity – Definition – Findings – Factors.

(1) As used in Title 75, Utah Uniform Probate Code, “incapacity” means a judicial determination that an adult’s ability, even with assistance, to

(c) provide for necessities such as food, shelter, clothing, health care or safety,

is so impaired that illness or physical or financial harm may occur. Incapacity is a judicial decision, not a medical decision, and is measured by functional limitations. Incapacity must be proved by clear and convincing evidence.

(2) The court shall enter findings in which the court identifies the functional limitations that cause the respondent to be incapacitated. In deciding whether the respondent is incapacitated, the court should consider and weigh, as appropriate:

(a) whether the respondent’s condition, limitations and level of functioning leave the respondent at risk of:

(i) his or her property being dissipated;

(ii) being unable to provide for his or her support, or for the support of individuals entitled to the respondent’s support;
(iii) being financially exploited;
(iv) being abused or neglected, including self-injurious behavior or self-neglect; or

(c) in the county of the court that committed the respondent under Title 62A, Chapter 5, Part 3, Admission to Mental Retardation Facility or under Title 62A, Chapter 15, Part 6, Utah State Hospital and Other Mental Health Facilities; or

(d) in the county in which property of the respondent is located, if the petition is to appoint a conservator or for a protective order and the respondent does not reside in Utah.

(2) If a proceeding is brought in more than one county, the court of the county in which the proceeding is first brought has the exclusive right to proceed unless that court determines that venue is proper in another county and that the interests of justice require that the proceeding be transferred.

(3) The court that appoints a guardian or conservator or enters a protective order retains venue for proceedings after the appointment or order unless that court determines that venue is proper in another county and that the interests of justice require that the proceeding be transferred.

Section 14. Section 75-5c-107 is enacted to read:

75-5c-107. Appointment and status of guardian or conservator.

Section 15. Section 75-5c-110 is enacted to read:

75-5c-110. Acceptance of appointment.

1. The guardian or conservator has authority to act upon filing an acceptance of appointment. A guardian or conservator shall file an acceptance of appointment within 30 days after the later of:

   a. entry of the order of appointment; or

   b. the occurrence of a future event designated in the appointment order.

2. By accepting appointment, a guardian or conservator submits personally to the jurisdiction of the court in any proceeding relating to the guardianship or conservatorship.

3. If a person nominated by will or signed writing timely complies with Section 75-5c-201, Section 75-5c-301 or Section 75-5c-401, the nominee’s acts before acceptance of the appointment that are beneficial to the respondent have the same effect as those that occur after acceptance.

Section 16. Section 75-5c-111 is enacted to read:

75-5c-111. Letters of office.

1. The court shall issue appropriate letters of office to the guardian or conservator. The letters shall state the authority of the guardian or conservator and the property subject to the guardian’s or conservator’s possession, ownership or control.

2. Letters of office are evidence of title to the protected person’s property and may be filed or recorded to give notice of title.

Section 17. Section 75-5c-112 is enacted to read:

Section 75-5c-112. Nominating a guardian or conservator.

1. A person 14 years of age or older may nominate a person to be appointed as guardian or conservator for oneself, for one’s spouse, or for one’s child whom the parent has or may have in the future by will, durable power of attorney, or other signed writing that:

   a. identifies the nominee and the office for which the nominee is nominated; and
(b) shows that the person is of sound mind and not acting under duress, fraud, or undue influence.

(2) The respondent may nominate someone orally at the hearing if the respondent is 14 years of age or older and has sufficient capacity to express a preference.

(3) The nomination may specify desired limitations on the authority to be given to the guardian or conservator.

75-5c-113. Petition to confirm nomination – Notice – Authority to act.

(1) A person who nominates someone to be appointed as guardian or conservator may petition to confirm the nomination if the nominator will likely become incapacitated or unable to care for the respondent within two years.

(2) If no objection is filed within the time permitted or if an objection is filed and withdrawn, the court shall confirm the nomination and cut off the right of others to object if it finds that the nomination is in the respondent’s best interest and the nominator will likely become incapacitated or unable to care for the respondent within two years.

(3) If an objection is filed, the court shall conduct proceedings to hear and determine the priority of appointment under Section 75-5c-114. An objection does not preclude confirmation of the nominee.

(4) An order under this Section appoints a contingent guardian or conservator but does not determine the respondent’s incapacity.

Section 19. Section 75-5c-114 is enacted to read:

75-5c-114. Who may be guardian or conservator -- Priority.

(1) The court may appoint as guardian or conservator any person whose appointment would be in the respondent’s best interest.

(2) In appointing a guardian or conservator, the court shall consider qualified persons in the following order of priority, unless the court finds the appointment would be contrary to the respondent’s best interest:

(a) a guardian or conservator, other than a substitute or emergency guardian or conservator, currently acting for the respondent in Utah or elsewhere or a person nominated by that person;
(b) respondent’s nominee, if the respondent is 14 years of age or older and at the time of the nomination the respondent had sufficient capacity to express a preference;

(h) an adult who has shown special care and concern for the respondent; and
(i) a professional guardian or conservator.

(3) If a person nominates more than one guardian or conservator, the most recent nomination controls.

(4) If two or more people who have equal priority to nominate a guardian or conservator are dead or incapacitated, the most recent nomination by the last person to die or to be adjudicated incapacitated has priority.

(5) If two or more people have equal priority, the court may select the one most qualified. In the best interest of the respondent, the court may decline to appoint a person having a higher priority and appoint a person having a lower priority or no priority.

(6) An owner, operator, or employee of a long-term-care institution at which the respondent is receiving care may not be appointed guardian or conservator unless related to the respondent by blood, marriage, or adoption.

(7) The nomination of a guardian or conservator by a parent does not supersede the parental rights of either parent.

Section 20. Section 75-5c-115 is enacted to read:

75-5c-115. Successor, additional or contingent guardian or conservator.

The court may appoint more than one guardian or conservator. The court may appoint a guardian or conservator to serve immediately or upon the occurrence of some future designated event. The court may appoint a successor guardian or conservator to serve in the event of a vacancy. Unless otherwise stated, a successor succeeds to the predecessor’s duties, authority, and title to property.

Section 21 Section 75-5c-116 is enacted to read:
75-5c-116. Termination, resignation, or removal.
(1) A guardianship or conservatorship terminates upon court order.
(2) The court may accept the resignation or order the removal of the guardian or conservator upon finding that resignation or removal would be in the protected person’s best interest.
(3) The court may terminate the guardianship, conservatorship or protective order upon sufficient evidence that:
   (a) the protected person has died;
   (b) the minor protected person has been adopted, is emancipated, or has attained majority; or
   (c) the protected person no longer needs the assistance or protection of a guardian, conservator or protective order.
(4) Upon presentation of evidence establishing a prima facie case for termination, the court shall order termination, unless it is proven by clear and convincing evidence that continuation of the guardianship or conservatorship is in the protected person’s best interest.
(5) Termination of the guardianship or conservatorship or death, incapacity, resignation or removal of the guardian or conservator does not affect the liability of a guardian or conservator for previous acts or the obligation to account for the protected person’s property.
(6) Upon termination of the guardianship or conservatorship, title to the protected person’s property passes to the person or to his or her successors. An order terminating the guardianship or conservatorship may be filed or recorded to give notice of title to the property. The order terminating the guardianship or conservatorship must provide for expenses of administration and direct the guardian or conservator to execute appropriate instruments to evidence transfer of title, to confirm a distribution previously made, and to file a final report.
(7) The court shall enter a final discharge order upon the approval of the final report and satisfaction of any other conditions ordered by the court.

Section 22. Section 75-5c-117 is enacted to read:

Section 75-5c-117. Emergency appointment.
(1) The court may appoint an emergency guardian or conservator if the court finds that:
   (a) following the procedures of this Chapter would likely result in substantial harm to the respondent’s health, safety, or welfare;
   (b) no other person appears to have authority to act;
   (c) the welfare of the respondent requires immediate action; and
(d) the appointment would be in the respondent’s best interest.

(2) The court may appoint an emergency guardian or conservator ex parte if it finds that the respondent will be substantially harmed before a hearing can be held. Unless the respondent is represented by a lawyer, the court shall appoint a lawyer to represent the respondent.

(3) The petition and notice of the hearing must be served using the method most likely to give prompt actual notice. If an emergency guardian or conservator is appointed without notice and hearing, notice of the appointment must be served within 2 days after the appointment and a hearing on the appropriateness of the appointment must be held within 5 days after the appointment.

(4) Appointment of an emergency guardian or conservator is not a determination of the respondent’s incapacity.

(5) After hearing, the court may appoint an emergency guardian or conservator for a specified period not to exceed 60 days, and the court may remove an emergency guardian or conservator at any time. The appointment terminates on the date specified by the court.

(6) The court may order only the authority justified by the emergency. The emergency guardian or conservator may exercise only the authority specified in the order. The emergency guardian or conservator shall make any report the court requires. The provisions of this Chapter concerning guardians or conservators apply to an emergency guardian or conservator.

(3) The petition and notice of the hearing must be served using the method most likely to give prompt actual notice. If a substitute guardian or conservator is appointed without notice and hearing, notice of the appointment must be served within 2 days after the appointment and a hearing on the appropriateness of the appointment must be held within 5 days after the appointment.

(4) After hearing, the court may appoint a substitute guardian or conservator for a specified period not to exceed 6 months, and the court may remove a substitute guardian or conservator at any time.

(5) Except as ordered by the court, a substitute guardian or conservator has the authority and duties in the previous order of appointment. The authority of a previously appointed guardian or conservator is suspended as long as a substitute guardian or conservator has authority.

(6) A substitute guardian or conservator shall make any report the court requires. The provisions of this Chapter concerning guardians and conservators apply to a substitute guardian or conservator.

Section 24. Section 75-5c-119 is enacted to read:

75-5c-119. Proceedings after appointment.

(n) grant other appropriate relief.

(3) A protected person or person interested in the welfare of the protected person may file a petition or a motion under the Utah Rules of Civil Procedure for an order under this Section.

(4) A protected person is entitled to the same rights and procedures in proceedings under this Section as in an original proceeding, including the appointment of an attorney.

(5) Sanctions for contempt of court include removal of the guardian or conservator and imposing on the guardian or conservator personal responsibility for any financial loss caused by the guardian’s or conservator’s wrongful conduct.

Section 25. Section 75-5c-120 is enacted to read:

75-5c-120. Guardian ad litem.

At any stage of a protective proceeding, a court may appoint a guardian ad litem if the court determines that representation of the interests of the respondent or protected person is inadequate. If not precluded by a conflict of interest, a guardian ad litem may be appointed to represent several individuals. The court shall state on the record the duties of the guardian ad litem and its reasons for the appointment.

(4) Unless otherwise provided by the terms of the bond, the sureties and the guardian or conservator are jointly and severally liable.

(5) By executing the bond, the surety consents to the jurisdiction of the court in any proceeding about the guardian’s or conservator’s fiduciary responsibilities in which the surety is named as a party. Notice of the proceeding and a copy of any petition, motion or other paper shall be served on the surety under Utah Rule of Civil Procedure 5 at the address shown in the court records and at any other address known to the petitioner.

(6) If a proceeding against the primary obligor is not barred, a proceeding may be brought by a conservator, successor conservator or any interested person against a surety for breach of the obligation of the bond. The bond may be proceeded against until liability under the bond is exhausted.

Section 27. Section 75-5c-122 is enacted to read:

75-5c-122. Compensation for services and reimbursement of expenses.

(a) the respondent’s or protected person’s lawyer, guardian ad litem, guardian and conservator;

(3) Claims for compensation and reimbursement must be presented to the conservator, if one has been appointed. If there is no conservator or if the conservator is the person to be paid, someone affiliated with the person to be paid, or someone within the third degree of relationship to the person to be paid, the compensation or reimbursement may be approved by the court. In allowing the claim, the conservator or court may consider the complexity of the service, the provider’s experience, and any other relevant factor.
(4) If the court finds the petition is without merit, the petitioner shall pay for the services and expenses in Subsection (1).

(5) If the court determines that the payments are excessive or inappropriate, the excessive or inappropriate amount must be repaid to the estate.

The court shall enter the least restrictive order consistent with its findings to accommodate the respondent’s particular functional limitations and demonstrated needs, including appointive and other orders that will encourage the respondent to develop maximum self-reliance and independence. The court should consider and weigh, as appropriate:

2. whether the protected person has planned for financial decisionmaking, such as a power of attorney, a trust or jointly held account, and whether the less restrictive alternatives to a conservatorship are meeting the respondent's needs;
3. whether the incapacity is likely to be temporary; protected person’s property and business affairs, including settlement of a claim, upon determining that it is in the protected person’s best interest.

(2) In deciding whether to approve a protective arrangement or other transaction under this Section, the court shall consider the factors described in Subsection 75-5c-409(3).

(3) The court may appoint a master to assist in any transaction or protective arrangement authorized under this Section. The master has the authority conferred by the order and shall serve until discharged after reporting to the court.

75-5c-409. Action requiring court approval.

(b) possible reduction of tax liabilities;

(c) eligibility for governmental assistance;

(d) the protected person’s previous pattern of giving or level of support;

(f) the protected person’s life expectancy and the probability that the conservatorship will terminate before the protected person’s death; and

(g) any other relevant factors.

(4) A conservator may revoke or amend a durable power of attorney of which the protected person is the principal. If a durable power of attorney is in effect, a decision of the conservator takes precedence over that of the agent unless the court orders otherwise.

Section 54. Section 75-5c-410 is enacted to read:

75-5c-410. Conservator’s duties.

The conservator must:
(1) within 14 days after appointment, serve on the protected person and all other people entitled to notice of the petition a copy of the appointment order and notice of the right to request termination or modification; person and exercisable by the conservator; and

(15) at termination, deliver any of the estate subject to the conservator’s possession, ownership or control and any records as directed by law or the court.

Section 55. Section 75-5c-411 is enacted to read:

75-5c-411. Title by appointment.

The appointment of a conservator vests title in the conservator as trustee to all property of the protected person, or to the part specified in the order, held at the time of appointment or later acquired. An order vesting title in the conservator to only part of the property of the protected person creates a conservatorship limited to assets specified in the order.

Section 56. Section 75-5c-412 is enacted to read:

75-5c-412. Protected person’s interest inalienable.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (3) and (4), the interest of a protected person in property vested in a conservator is not transferable or assignable by the protected person.
An attempted transfer or assignment by the protected person, although ineffective to affect property rights, may give rise to a claim against the protected person for restitution or damages which may be presented to the conservator.

(2) Property vested in a conservator by appointment and the interest of the protected person in that property are not subject to levy, garnishment, or similar process for claims against the protected person unless allowed after presentation.

(3) A person without knowledge of the conservatorship who in good faith and for security or substantially equivalent value receives delivery of tangible personal property normally transferred by delivery is protected as if the protected person or transferee had valid title.

(4) A third party who deals with the protected person with respect to property vested in a conservator is entitled to any protection provided in other law.

Section 57. Section 75-5c-413 is enacted to read:

75-5c-413. Sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving conflict of interest.
Any transaction affected by a substantial conflict between the conservator’s fiduciary and personal interests is voidable unless the transaction is expressly authorized by the court after notice to interested persons. A transaction affected by a substantial conflict between fiduciary and personal interests includes any sale, encumbrance, or other transaction involving the estate entered into by the conservator, the spouse, descendant, agent, or lawyer of a conservator, or a corporation or other enterprise in which the conservator has a substantial beneficial interest.

Section 58. Section 75-5c-414 is enacted to read:

75-5c-414. Protection of person dealing with conservator.

(1) A person who assists or deals with a conservator in good faith and for value in any transaction other than one requiring a court order is protected as though the conservator properly exercised the authority. That a person knowingly assists or deals with a conservator does not alone require the person to inquire into the conservator’s authority or the propriety of its exercise, but restrictions on the conservator’s authority endorsed on letters of office are effective as to third persons. A person who pays or delivers assets to a conservator is not responsible for their proper application.

(2) Protection provided by this Section extends to any procedural irregularity or jurisdictional defect that occurred in the proceedings leading to the issuance of letters and is not a substitute for protection provided to persons assisting or dealing with a conservator by comparable provisions in other law relating to commercial transactions or to simplifying transfers of securities by fiduciaries.

Section 59. Section 75-5c-415 is enacted to read:

75-5c-415. Authority of conservator in administration.

(1) Except as otherwise restricted in the appointment order and endorsed on the letters of office, a conservator has all of the authority granted in this Section and any additional authority granted by law to a trustee.

(2) A conservator, acting reasonably and in an effort to accomplish the purpose of the appointment, and without court authorization, may:

(a) collect, hold, and retain estate assets, including assets in which the conservator has a personal interest and real property in another state, until the conservator considers that disposition of an asset should be made;

(b) receive additions to the estate;
(c) continue or participate in the operation of a business or other enterprise;
(d) acquire an undivided interest in an estate asset in which the conservator, in a fiduciary capacity, holds an undivided interest;
(e) invest estate assets as though the conservator were a trustee;
(f) deposit estate money in a financial institution, including one operated by the conservator;
(g) acquire or dispose of an estate asset, including real property in another state, for cash or on credit, at public or private sale, and manage, develop, improve, exchange, partition, change the character of, or abandon an estate asset;
(h) make ordinary or extraordinary repairs or alterations in buildings or other structures, demolish any improvements, and raze existing or erect new party walls or buildings;
(i) subdivide, develop, or dedicate land to public use, make or obtain the vacation of plats and adjust boundaries, adjust differences in valuation or exchange or partition by giving or receiving considerations, and dedicate easements to public use without consideration;
(j) enter for any purpose into a lease as lessor or lessee, with or without option to purchase or renew, for a term within or extending beyond the term of the conservatorship;
(k) enter into a lease or arrangement for exploration and removal of minerals or other natural resources or enter into a pooling or unitization agreement;
(l) grant an option involving disposition of an estate asset and take an option for the acquisition of any asset;
(m) vote a security, in person or by general or limited proxy;
(n) pay calls, assessments, and any other sums chargeable or accruing against or on account of securities;
(o) sell or exercise stock subscription or conversion rights;
(p) consent, directly or through a committee or other agent, to the reorganization, consolidation, merger, dissolution, or liquidation of a corporation or other business enterprise;
(q) hold a security in the name of a nominee or in other form without disclosure of the conservatorship so that title to the security may pass by delivery;
(r) insure estate assets against damage or loss and the conservator against liability with respect to a third person;
(s) borrow money on behalf of the protected person, with or without security, to be repaid from the estate or otherwise and advance money for the protection of the estate or the protected person and for all expenses, losses, and liability sustained in the administration of the estate or because of the holding or ownership of any assets, for which the conservator has a lien on the estate as against the protected person for advances so made;

75-5c-416. Delegation.

(1) A conservator may not delegate to an agent or another conservator the entire administration of the estate, but a conservator may delegate the performance of functions that a prudent trustee of comparable skills may delegate under similar circumstances.

(2) The conservator shall exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution in:

(a) selecting an agent;

(b) establishing the scope and terms of a delegation, consistent with the purposes and terms of the conservatorship;
(c) periodically reviewing an agent’s overall performance and compliance with the terms of the delegation; and
(d) redressing an action or decision of an agent which would constitute a breach of trust if performed by the conservator.

(3) A conservator who complies with subsections (1) and (2) is not liable to the protected person or to the estate for the decisions or actions of the agent to whom a function was delegated.

(4) In performing a delegated function, an agent shall exercise reasonable care to comply with the terms of the delegation.

(5) By accepting a delegation from a conservator subject to Utah law, an agent submits to the jurisdiction of the Utah courts.

Section 61. Section 75-5c-417 is enacted to read:

Unless otherwise specified in the appointment order and endorsed on the letters of office or contrary to the management plan, a conservator may, without further court authorization or confirmation, expend or distribute income or principal of the estate for the support, care, education, health, and welfare of the protected person and individuals entitled to the protected person’s support, including the payment of child support or spousal support, under the following rules:

(1) A conservator shall consider a guardian’s recommendations about the appropriate standard of support, care, education, health, and welfare for the protected person or individuals entitled to the protected person’s support. If the protected person is a protected person, the conservator shall consider a parent’s recommendations.

(2) A conservator may not be surcharged for money paid to persons furnishing support, care, education, or benefits to a protected person or individuals entitled to the protected person’s support under the recommendations of the protected person’s parent or guardian, unless the conservator knows that the parent or guardian derives a personal financial benefit, including relief from any personal duty of support, or the recommendations are not in the best interest of the protected person.

(3) In making distributions under this Subsection, the conservator shall consider:
(a) the size of the estate, the estimated duration of the conservatorship, and the likelihood that the protected person, at some future time, may be fully self-sufficient and able to manage business affairs and the estate;
(b) the accustomed standard of living of the protected person and individuals entitled to the protected person’s support; and
(c) other money or sources used for the support of the protected person and individuals entitled to the protected person’s support.
(4) Money expended under this Subsection may be paid by the conservator to any person, including the protected person, as reimbursement for expenditures that the conservator might have made, or in advance for services to be rendered to the protected person if it is reasonable to expect the services will be performed and advance payments are customary or reasonably necessary under the circumstances.

Section 62. Section 75-5c-418 is enacted to read:

75-5c-418. Death of protected person.
(1) Upon the death of a protected person, the conservator shall deliver to the court for safekeeping any will of the protected person which may have come into the conservator’s possession, inform the personal representative or beneficiary named in the will of the delivery, and retain the estate for delivery to the decedent’s personal representative or to another person entitled to it.
(2) Upon the death of a protected person, the conservator shall conclude the administration of the estate by distribution to the protected person’s successors. The conservator shall file a final report and petition for to terminate the conservatorship within 30 days after distribution.

Section 63. Section 75-5c-419 is enacted to read:

75-5c-419. Presentation and allowance of claims.
(1) A conservator may pay, or secure by encumbering estate assets, claims against the estate or against the protected person arising before or during the conservatorship upon their presentation and allowance under the priorities stated in Subsection (5). A claimant may present a claim by:
(a) sending or delivering to the conservator a written statement of the claim, indicating its basis, the name and address of the claimant, and the amount claimed; or
(b) filing a written statement of the claim, in a form acceptable to the court, with the court clerk and sending or delivering a copy of the statement to the conservator.

(2) A claim is deemed presented on receipt of the written statement of claim by the conservator or the filing of the claim with the court clerk, whichever occurs first.

(3) A presented claim is allowed if it is not disallowed by written statement sent or delivered by the conservator to the claimant within 60 days after its presentation. Before payment, the conservator may change an allowance to a disallowance in whole or in part, but not after allowance under a court order or judgment or an order directing payment of the claim. The presentation of a claim tolls the running of any statute of limitations relating to the claim until 30 days after its disallowance.

(4) A claimant whose claim has not been paid may petition the court for determination of the claim at any time before it is barred by a statute of limitations and, upon proof, procure an order for its allowance, payment, or security by encumbering estate assets. If a proceeding is pending against a protected person at the time of the conservator’s appointment or is later initiated against the protected person, the moving party shall give to the conservator notice of any proceeding that could result in creating a claim against the estate.

(5) If it appears that the estate is likely to be exhausted before all existing claims are paid, the conservator shall distribute the estate in money or in kind in payment of claims in the following order:

(a) costs and expenses of administration;

(b) claims of the federal or state government having priority under other law;

(c) claims incurred by the conservator for support, care, education, health, and welfare previously provided to the protected person or individuals entitled to the protected person’s support;

(d) claims arising before the conservatorship; and

(e) all other claims.

(6) Preference may not be given in the payment of a claim over any other claim of the same class, and a claim due and payable may not be preferred over a claim not due.

(7) If assets of the conservatorship are adequate to meet all existing claims, the court, acting in the best interest of the protected person, may order the conservator to grant a security interest in the estate for the payment of any or all claims at a future date.
Section 64. Section 75-5c-420 is enacted to read:

75-5c-420. Personal liability of conservator.

(1) Except as otherwise agreed, a conservator is not personally liable on a contract properly entered into in a fiduciary capacity in the course of administration of the estate unless the conservator fails to reveal in the contract the representative capacity and identify the estate.

(2) A conservator is not personally liable for obligations arising from possession, ownership or control of estate property or for other acts or omissions occurring in the course of administration of the estate unless the conservator is personally at fault.

(3) Regardless whether the conservator is personally liable, claims based on contracts entered into by a conservator in a fiduciary capacity, obligations arising from possession, ownership or control of the estate, and claims based on torts committed in the course of administration of the estate may be asserted against the estate by proceeding against the conservator in a fiduciary capacity.

(4) A question of liability between the estate and the conservator personally may be determined in a proceeding for accounting, surcharge, or indemnification, or in another appropriate proceeding or action.

(5) A conservator is not personally liable for any environmental condition on or injury resulting from any environmental condition on land solely by reason of acquisition of title under Section 75-5c-411.

Section 65. Section 75-5c-421 is enacted to read:

75-5c-421. Payment of debt and delivery of property to foreign conservator without local proceeding.

(1) A person who is indebted to or has the possession of tangible or intangible property of a protected person may pay the debt or deliver the property to a foreign conservator, guardian of the estate, or other court-appointed fiduciary of the state in which a protected person resides.

(2) Payment or delivery may be made only upon proof of appointment and presentation of an affidavit made by or on behalf of the fiduciary stating that a protective proceeding relating to the protected person is not pending in Utah and the foreign fiduciary is entitled to payment or to receive delivery.

(3) Payment or delivery under Subsection (1) discharges the debtor or possessor, absent knowledge of a protective proceeding pending in Utah.
Section 66. Section 78B-5-804 is amended to read:

78B-5-804. Money deposited in court.

(1)(a) Any person depositing money in court, to be held in trust, shall pay it to the court clerk.

(b) The clerk shall deposit the money in a court trust fund or with the county treasurer or city recorder to be held subject to the order of the court.

(2) The Judicial Council shall adopt rules governing the maintenance of court trust funds and the disposition of interest earnings on those trust funds.

(3)(a) Any interest earned on trust funds in the courts of record that is not required to accrue to the litigants by Judicial Council rule or court order shall be deposited in a restricted account.

(b) A respondent or protected person may not waive notice. A person other than the respondent or protected person may waive notice by a writing signed by the person or the person’s attorney and filed with the court.

(c) An interested person not otherwise entitled to notice who desires to be notified before an order is entered may file a request for notice with the court. The court clerk shall send a copy of the request to the guardian and to the conservator if one has been appointed. A request is not effective unless it contains a statement showing the interest of the person making it and the address of that person or a lawyer to whom notice is to be sent. The request is effective only for proceedings conducted after the request is filed. A governmental agency paying or planning to pay benefits to the respondent or protected person is an interested person.

(c) Pleadings and other papers, including the estate inventory, management plan, annual reports and objections must be served as provided in subdivision (a). Service must include notice of the hearing if one has been scheduled and must include notice of the right to object if there is

(b) URCP 154. Manner of service.

(a) If Rule 153 requires that a person be served, the person must be served in the following manner.

(b)(1) The initial petition and notice of hearing must be served personally on the respondent or protected person in accordance with Rule 4 at least 14 days before the hearing.
(b)(2) The notice must state in plain language the date, time and location of the hearing, require the respondent or protected person to be present at the hearing unless excused by the court, inform the respondent or protected person of his or her rights, and include a description of the nature, purpose, and consequences of an order granting the petition. The notice must be in plain language and large type. If English is not the primary language of the respondent or protected person, the notice must be in English and in the primary language.
(b)(3) If a lawyer represents the respondent, pleadings and papers after the petition must be served on the lawyer, rather than the respondent, in accordance with Rule 5.
(b)(4) If the respondent or protected person is not served in a manner substantially complying with this rule, the court may not grant the petition.

(b)(5) If the petition is to appoint a conservator or enter a protective order, and if the respondent’s whereabouts are unknown or personal service cannot be made, service on the respondent must be made by substituted service under Rule 4.

(c) A petition and notice of hearing must be served on any person other than the respondent in accordance with Rule 5 at least 14 days before the hearing.

(d) Pleadings, and other papers, including the estate inventory, management plan, annual reports and objections must be served within 14 days after filing.

(c) URCP 155. Appointment of lawyer to represent a respondent in a protective proceeding.

(a) If an adult respondent in a protective proceeding is not represented by a lawyer of the respondent’s own choice, the court shall appoint a lawyer to represent the respondent from the roster maintained by the executive director of the Utah State Bar.

(b) When a petition in a protective proceeding is filed, the clerk will offer the appointment to the first lawyer in order on the roster willing to accept appointments in that county. If the proceeding is after an original proceeding, the clerk should offer the appointment to the lawyer who represented the respondent in the original proceeding.

(c) The lawyer will review the case for conflicts of interest and any other factor that might impede the lawyer from independent and zealous representation of the respondent. If the lawyer declines the appointment, the clerk will offer the appointment to the next lawyer on the roster.

Upon accepting the appointment, the judge will enter an order appointing the lawyer, and the clerk will move the lawyer’s name to the bottom of the roster. If the lawyer represents the respondent without charge or at a reduced charge based on the respondent’s ability to pay, the judge will acknowledge this in the appointment order. The judge can remove a lawyer from a case.

(d) Upon motion of a party or upon the court’s own motion, the court may determine whether the lawyer representing the respondent is a qualified independent advocate. In making the finding, the judge should consider whether:

(d)(1) the lawyer has demonstrated by education and experience proficiency in the law and procedures of protective proceedings, especially in relation to the complexity of the case;
(d)(2) the lawyer has the knowledge, skill, thoroughness and preparation necessary to candidly advise and zealously represent the respondent with undivided loyalty under the Rules of Professional Conduct, including Rule 1.14, Client with Diminished Capacity;
(d)(3) any other relevant factors.
(e) Unless the court orders otherwise, the lawyer’s obligation to represent the respondent ends when the court enters a final order or decree.

(d) URCP 156. Court visitor.
(a) If a petition to appoint a guardian or conservator or enter a protective order claims that the respondent is incapacitated, the court may appoint a visitor, with or without a request by a party or interested person. The visitor must be an individual qualified to evaluate the respondent’s alleged incapacity and functional limitations and must have no conflict of interest. The visitor must interview the respondent in person. If the visitor does not speak and understand the respondent’s primary language, the court must appoint an interpreter. To the extent that the respondent is able to understand, the visitor must:
   (a)(1) explain to the respondent the substance of the petition, the nature, purpose, and effect of the proceeding, the respondent’s rights at the hearing, the duties of a guardian or conservator, and the authority that has been requested;
   (a)(2) determine the respondent’s views about the proposed guardian, conservator, or protective order, the proposed authority and duties of the guardian or conservator, and the scope and duration of the appointment or protective order;
   (a)(3) inform the respondent of the right to employ and consult with a lawyer and the right to a court-appointed lawyer; and
   (a)(4) inform the respondent that all costs, attorney fees and expenses of the proceeding will be paid from the respondent’s estate.
(b) Unless otherwise directed by the court, the visitor must:
   (b)(1) interview the petitioner and the proposed guardian;
   (b)(2) visit the respondent's present dwelling and any dwelling in which the respondent will live if the appointment is made;
   (b)(3) obtain information from any physician or other person who is known to have treated, advised, or assessed the respondent’s relevant physical or mental condition; and
   (b)(4) make any other investigation the court directs.
(c) The visitor must promptly file a report in writing with the court. Unless otherwise directed by the court, the report must include:

(c)(1) a summary of functions the respondent cannot manage, can manage without assistance, and can manage with the assistance of supportive services or benefits, including appropriate technological assistance;

(c)(2) recommendations regarding the appropriateness of an appointment or protective order, including whether less restrictive means of intervention are available, and the authority to be granted to the guardian or conservator;

(c)(3) a statement of the qualifications of the proposed guardian or conservator;

(c)(4) a statement of the respondent’s views about the proposed guardian, conservator, or protective order, the proposed authority and duties of the guardian or conservator, and the scope and duration of the appointment or protective order;

(c)(5) a statement about whether the proposed dwelling meets the respondent’s needs;

(c)(6) a recommendation about whether a professional evaluation or further evaluation is necessary; and

(c)(7) any other matters the court directs.

(e) URCP 157. Evaluation of respondent.

(a) If a petition to appoint a guardian or conservator or enter a protective order claims that the respondent is incapacitated, the court may order a professional evaluation of the respondent and must order the evaluation if requested by the respondent. The court should order an evaluation if it is not clear, based on the court’s own assessment or on the visitor’s report, that the respondent is incapacitated.

(b) If the court orders the evaluation, the respondent must be examined by a physician, psychiatrist, or other individual appointed by the court who is qualified to evaluate the respondent’s alleged incapacity and functional limitations.

(c) The examiner shall promptly file a written report with the court. Unless otherwise directed by the court, the report must contain:

(c)(1) a description of the nature, type, and extent of the respondent’s cognitive and functional limitations;

(c)(2) an evaluation of the respondent’s mental and physical condition and, if appropriate, educational potential, adaptive behavior, and social skills;
(c)(3) a prognosis for improvement and a recommendation about the appropriate treatment or habilitation plan;
(c)(4) the date of the examination upon which the report is based; and
(c)(5) any other matters the court directs.

(f) URCP 158. Presence and rights at hearing
(a) In a protective proceeding, the respondent and the proposed guardian or conservator shall attend the hearing unless excused by the court for good cause.
(b) The respondent may present evidence, subpoena witnesses and documents, examine witnesses, including the visitor and any court-appointed evaluator, and otherwise participate in the hearing. The hearing may be held in a location convenient to the respondent and may be closed upon the request of the respondent and a showing of good cause.
(c) Any person may request permission to participate in the proceeding. The court may grant the request, with or without hearing, upon determining that the respondent’s best interest will be served. The court may attach appropriate conditions to participation.

(g) URCP 159. Minimum qualifications before appointment.
(a) Before an order appointing a guardian or conservator is entered, the proposed guardian or conservator must disclose any felony or misdemeanor convictions in Utah or elsewhere.
(b) Before an order appointing a guardian or conservator is entered, the proposed guardian or conservator must file a statement showing satisfactory completion of a court-approved examination on the responsibilities of a guardian or conservator.
(c) This rule does not apply to a professional guardian, professional conservator, the Office of Public Guardian, or an emergency appointment.

(h) URCP 160. Guardian’s management plan.
(a) Within 90 days after appointment, the guardian shall file a management plan describing the strategies that will be used to implement the court order. The guardian shall, to the extent reasonable, involve the protected person in developing the plan. Even if legal consent is not possible, the opinions of the protected person should be sought.
(b) The management plan shall describe:
(b)(1) how the rights retained by the protected person will be ensured;
(2) the protected person’s religious, moral, conscientious, or cultural values that will guide decisions;
(b) how the guardian will implement any restrictions permitted by court order on the protected person’s physical liberty, communications or social activities;
(b) the protected person’s dwelling and any recommended changes;
(b) the health care, personal care, social, vocational, educational and related services for the protected person;
(b) any physical or mental examinations necessary to determine the protected person's health care needs;
(b) the insurance and any other benefits to which the protected person may be entitled to meet the costs of health care, personal care, social, vocational, educational and related services;
(b) steps to develop the protected person’s capacity;
(b) the estimated duration of the guardianship;
(b) short term and long term goals;
(b) any issues, concerns or unmet needs; and
(b) if a conservator or health care agent has been appointed, the planned nature and frequency of communications and the method to be used for resolving disputes.
(c) If there is no conservator, the guardian shall include the management plan required of a conservator in the guardianship management plan or file it separately.
(d) The management plan must contain a certificate of whether the guardian consulted the protected person in developing the plan. The management plan must contain a certificate that the guardian will exercise the substituted judgment decisionmaking standard for all circumstances except where the best interest decisionmaking standard is permitted by law.
(e) A management plan must be based on the court order. A management plan takes effect when approved by the court and continues until the court approves a replacement plan. A management plan may allow for minor changes without court approval, but the guardian must request court approval of a substantial change.

(j) URCP 161. Conservator’s management plan.
(a) Within 90 days after appointment, the conservator, and if there is no conservator, the guardian, shall file a management plan describing the strategies that will be used to implement the court order. The conservator shall, to the extent reasonable, involve the protected person in developing the plan. Even if legal consent is not possible, the opinions of the protected person should be sought.

(b) The management plan shall describe:

(b)(1) current and future expenses and resources;
(b)(2) how to meet the protected person’s financial needs;
(b)(3) how to protect, manage, expend, and distribute the estate assets;
(b)(4) whether assets will need to be sold;
(b)(5) the estimated duration of the conservatorship;
(b)(6) short term and long term goals;
(b)(7) any issues, concerns or unmet needs; and
(b)(8) if a guardian or health care agent has been appointed, the planned nature and frequency of communications and the method to be used for resolving disputes.

(c) The management plan must contain a certificate of whether the conservator consulted the protected person in developing the plan. The management plan must contain a certificate that the conservator will exercise the substituted judgment decisionmaking standard for all circumstances except where the best interest decisionmaking standard is permitted by law.

(d) A management plan must be based on the court order. A management plan takes effect when approved by the court and continues until the court approves a replacement plan. A management plan may allow for minor changes without court approval, but the conservator must request court approval of a substantial change.

(j) URCP 162. Guardian’s annual report.

(a) A guardian shall report about the protected person’s conditions no later than 60 days after each anniversary of the appointment. The report shall be filed with the court that made the appointment unless that court orders a change in venue. The reporting period is yearly from the appointment date unless the court changes the reporting period. The report may not be filed before the close of the reporting period. For good cause the court may extend the time for filing the report, but a late filing does not change the reporting period.

(b) The report shall contain sufficient information to put interested persons on notice of all significant events and transactions during the reporting period. Forms substantially conforming to the forms produced by the Utah court website are acceptable for content and format. The court may direct that a report contain information it deems necessary.
(c) A report must describe for the reporting period:

(c)(1) the guardian’s visits with the protected person and activities on the protected person’s behalf;

(c)(2) the protected person’s living arrangements and the guardian’s opinion of the living arrangements and reasons for change;

(c)(3) the protected person’s mental and physical condition and educational, vocational, and social activities or services;

(c)(4) the protected person’s health care treatment and the guardian’s opinion of the health care and reasons for change;

(c)(5) the protected person’s cognitive, emotional and everyday functioning and limitations;

(c)(6) the protected person’s participation in decisionmaking;

(c)(7) the guardian’s opinion of the need to continue the guardianship or to change the management plan; and (c)(8) plans for future care.

(k) URCP 163. Conservator’s annual report.

(a) A conservator, and if there is no conservator the guardian, shall report about the protected person’s estate no later than 60 days after each anniversary of the appointment. The report shall be filed with the court that made the appointment unless that court orders a change in venue. The reporting period is yearly from the appointment date unless the court changes the reporting period. The report may not be filed before the close of the reporting period. For good cause the court may extend the time for filing the report, but a late filing does not change the reporting period.

(a) The report shall contain sufficient information to put interested persons on notice of all significant events and transactions during the reporting period. Forms substantially conforming to the forms produced by the Utah court website are acceptable for content and format. A professional conservator may file its internal accounting. If the protected person’s estate is limited to a federal or state program requiring an annual accounting, the conservator may file a copy of that accounting. The court may direct that a report contain information it deems necessary.

(b) A report must describe for the reporting period:

(b)(1) the conservator’s visits with the protected person;
(b)(2) the protected person’s participation in decisionmaking;
(b)(3) the estate assets under the conservator’s control and the receipts, disbursements, and distributions; and (b)(4) the conservator’s opinion of the need to continue the conservatorship or to change the management plan.

(I) Rule 6-501. Reporting requirements for guardians and conservators.

(Repeal)

Intent:
To establish the requirements sufficient to satisfy the Utah Uniform Probate Code.

Applicability:
This rule applies to guardians and conservators with the following exceptions:
This rule does not apply if the guardian or conservator is the parent of the ward.
Paragraph (1) does not apply to the guardian of a minor if the guardianship is limited to the purpose of attending school.
Paragraph (1) does not apply to a conservator licensed under the Title 7, Chapter 5, Trust Business, to a guardian licensed under §75-5-311(1)(a), or to the Office of Public Guardian.
Paragraphs (6)(A), (6)(B) and (6)(C) do not apply to the guardian of a minor if the guardianship is limited to the purpose of attending school. A person interested in the minor may request a report under Utah Code Section 75-5-209.
Paragraph (6)(D) does not apply to the guardian of a minor if the minor’s estate is deposited in an account requiring judicial approval for withdrawal or if there is no estate. A person interested in the minor may request an accounting under Utah Code Section 75-5-209.

Statement of the Rule:
(1) Before entering an order appointing a guardian or conservator, the court shall require the guardian or conservator to file a verified statement showing satisfactory completion of a court-approved examination on the responsibilities of a guardian or conservator.
(2) The guardian shall keep contemporaneous records of significant events in the life of the ward and produce them if requested by the court. The conservator shall keep contemporaneous receipts, vouchers or other evidence of income and expenses and produce them if requested by the court. The guardian and conservator shall maintain the records until the appointment is terminated and then deliver them to the ward, if there is no successor, to the successor guardian or conservator, or to the personal representative of the ward’s estate.

(3) Definitions.

(3)(A) “Accounting” means the annual accounting required by Utah Code Section 75-5-312 and Section 75-5-417 and the final accounting required by Utah Code Section 75-5-419.

(3)(B) “Interested persons” means the ward, if he or she is of an appropriate age and mental capacity to understand the proceedings, the ward’s guardian and conservator, the ward’s spouse, adult children, parents and siblings and anyone requesting notice under Utah Code Section 75-5-406. If no person is an interested person, then interested person includes at least one of the ward’s closest adult relatives, if any can be found.

(3)(C) “Inventory” means the inventory required by Utah Code Section 75-5-418.

(3)(D) “Serve” means any manner of service permitted by Utah Rule of Civil Procedure 5.

(3)(E) “Report” means the annual report on the status of the ward required by Utah Code Section 75-5-209 and Section 75-5-312.

(3)(F) “Ward” means a minor or an incapacitated person for whom the court appoints a guardian or a protected person for whom the court appoints a conservator.

(4) Subject to the requirements of Paragraph (5):

(4)(A) forms substantially conforming to the forms produced by the Utah court website are acceptable for content and format for the report and accounting filed under the Utah Uniform Probate Code;

(4)(B) a corporate fiduciary may file its internal report or accounting; and

(4)(C) if the ward's estate is limited to a federal or state program requiring an annual accounting, the fiduciary may file a copy of that accounting.

(5) The report, inventory and accounting shall contain sufficient information to put interested persons on notice of all significant events and transactions during the reporting period.

Compliance with Paragraph (4) is presumed sufficient, but the court may direct that a report or accounting be prepared with content and format as it deems necessary.

(6)(A) The guardian shall file with the appointing court a report on the status of the ward no later than 60 days after the anniversary of the appointment. The guardian shall file the report with the court that appointed the guardian unless that court orders a change in venue under Utah Code Section 75-5-313. The reporting period is yearly from the appointment date unless the court changes the reporting period on motion of the guardian. The guardian may not file the report before the close of the reporting period. For good cause the court may extend the time for filing the report, but a late filing does not change the reporting period.

(6)(B) The guardian shall serve a copy of the report on all interested persons with notice that the person may object within 30 days after the notice was served.

(6)(C) If an interested person objects, the person shall specify in writing the entries to which the person objects and state the reasons for the objection. The person shall file the objection with the court and serve a copy on all interested persons. If an objection is filed, the judge shall conduct a hearing. The judge may conduct a hearing even though no objection is filed. If the judge finds that the report is in order, the judge shall approve it.

(6)(D) If there is no conservator, the guardian shall file the inventory and accounting required of a conservator.

(7)(A) Within 90 days after the appointment, the conservator shall file with the appointing court the inventory required by Utah Code Section 75-5-418. For good cause the court may extend the time for filing the inventory.

(7)(B) The conservator shall serve a copy of the inventory on all interested persons with notice that the person may object within 30 days after the notice was served.

(7)(C) If an interested person objects, the person shall specify in writing the entries to which the person objects and state the reasons for the objection. The person shall file the objection with the court and serve a copy on all interested persons. If an objection is filed, the judge shall conduct a hearing. The judge may conduct a hearing even though no objection is filed. If the judge finds that the inventory is in order, the judge shall approve it.

(8)(A) The conservator shall file with the appointing court an accounting of the estate of the ward no later than 60 days after the anniversary of the appointment. The conservator shall file the accounting with the court that appointed the conservator unless that court orders a change in venue under Utah Code Section 75-5-403. The reporting period is yearly from the appointment date unless the court changes the reporting period on motion of the conservator. The conservator may not file the accounting before the close of the reporting period. For good cause the court may extend the time for filing the accounting, but a late filing does not change the reporting period.
(8)(B) The conservator shall serve a copy of the accounting on all interested persons with notice that the person may object within 30 days after the notice was served.

(8)(C) If an interested person objects, the person shall specify in writing the entries to which the person objects and state the reasons for the objection. The person shall file the objection with the court and serve a copy on all interested persons. If an objection is filed, the judge shall conduct a hearing. The judge may conduct a hearing even though no objection is filed. If the judge finds that the accounting is in order, the judge shall approve it.

(9)(A) The conservator shall file with the court a final accounting of the estate of the ward with the motion to terminate the appointment.

(9)(B) The conservator shall serve a copy of the accounting on all interested persons with notice that the person may object within 30 days after the notice was served.

(9)(C) If an interested person objects, the person shall specify in writing the entries to which the person objects and state the reasons for the objection. The person shall file the objection with the court and serve a copy on all interested persons. If an objection is filed, the judge shall conduct a hearing. The judge may conduct a hearing even though no objection is filed. If the judge finds that the accounting is in order, the judge shall approve it.
